He has proved that asthma in some children is a form of the body reaction, called by the doctors, "anaphylaxis," that it occurs in the children as the result of susceptibility to proteld substances in eggs, or, as mothers would say, is a manifestation of "egg poisoning," and these children can be immunized against egg poisoning and freed of their asthmatic attacks by repeated doses of egg white. The amendment precipitated long discussion. Many amendments were offered to include all subjects of belligerent countries whose homes had been invaded. Senator Poindexter declared other nations would protest under the favored nation clause of their treaties with the United States.

Senator Root, who made an elequent plea for the Lodge amendment, declared that it would not violate any treaty obligation. He pictured the Belgians as a people without a country and without protecting government, who needed asylum. Many Senators from agricultural States protested against the limitation of these exemptions to farmers.

The literacy test as finally approved by the Senate is practically as it passed the House, all amendments to enlarge the exemptions to admit persons fleeing from political or racial as well as religious persecution, having been rejected. The section follows:

FIFTY TROOPERS FOR EACH FORT.

CENTRAL DEPARTMENT POSTS ALMOST DEPOPULATED BY RECENT CALLS.

Chicagio, Jan. 2.—Calls for United States soldiers on the Mexican border, Colorado, Arkansas and elsewhere, during the last two years have depopulated the twelve forts in the Central Department to a corporal's guard, according to a report today by Co D. A. Frederick at departmental head quarters here.

In January, 1913, the number of troops in the department was 19,529, with 1107 officers. This year the total is 708 troops with forty-nine officers, just enough to guard the barracks and stables.

Of the forty officers, twelve are in Chicago. The remainder are distributed in the Sheridan, Omaha, Snelling, Wayne, Benjamin Harrison, Crook, D. A. Russel, Des Moines, Leavenworth, McKenzie, Meade and Riley forts.

The forts average three officers and fifty troopers each. IBY A. P. NIGHT WIRE washington, Jan. 2.—The average farmer receives little more money for his year's work than he would be paid if he hired himself out as a farmhand, the Department of Agriculture announced in a statement today. In other words, though he is in business for himself, he gets little or no money reward for his labors and the risk and responsibility he has assumed.

The average value of the chief necessities of life—food, fuel, oil and shelter—used each year by the farm family was found by investigation to be $395.08. Of these necessities, estimated in money, the portion contributed directly by the farm was $421.17, leaving necessities to the value of $173.91 to be purchased by the farm.

Of the food consumed 62 per cent, was furnished by the farm, which varied considerably in different sections. It was greatest in North Carolina, where farms supplied $2.2 per cent, of the food consumed, while the average in New York was only 50.4.

In view of the President has passed on it.

Gen. Marshall, the engineer officer attached to the Interior Department, has less made a report which is made a part of the report submitted by Secretary Lane.

Gen. Marshall is of the opinion that the work desired should be done, but thinks it will cost $465,000. On the other hand, engineers who examined the site of the proposed work for the people of Imperial Valley, estimated that it would cost $250,000. While awaiting, the receipt of Secretary Lane.

As the water rushed in, the men of the English coats are succeeded in getting away. Almost all the coars were broken in trying to pre-

ANTI-ALIEN LABOR BILL APPEARS IN SACRAMENTO.

Brown seems as proud of his bill as though it were original with his district and had been mined in the mother lode. His measure provides that no industry in the State shall be permitted to, employ less than 80 per cent of American labor. The only exception made is for persons employing less than five people.

Brown's cause of grief seems to be that there are too many Slavs, Mexicans and Austrians employed under ground on the mother lode. He says that American citizens have been fired to make places for cheap Mexican and European labor, but he does not limit the non-employment of foreigners to the mining industry. He says that what is good for the mining country is good for the workmen in every other line.

Concerning the anti-alien land bill

Concerning the anti-alien land bill there is more reticence displayed. The "Progressives" do not want it talked about until the fight over the organization of the Assembly is concluded. The walking delegates have agreed to hold it back until the Assembly is organized, but while withholding it they are secretly proselyting for votes. Under the anti-alien legislation adopted two years ago, Japanese are adepted two years ago, Japanese are permitted to lease land for short terms. The bill now proposed would wipe out this leasing clause and leave to allease no land tenure of any form in California.

In the Sacramento Hotel lobby tonight a Senator asserted that requests have already been received from the State Department at Washington asking that the anti-alien legislation be not agitated at the coming session by reason of the unsettled international conditions occasioned by the great European war. But some of the high wire statesmen here enjoyed hugely the notoriety they secured by reason of the anti-alien bills two years ago, and they would like some more of it. The impression prevailing here is that the State Department, in place

Johnson, and his leaders believe they will have a working majority of more than fifty of the eighty Assemblymen. Legislators streamed into Sacramento all day, and by tonight something more than half had arrived. Chief interest swung around the fight for Speaker of the Assembly, with Assemblyman C. C. Young, administration candidate for re-election, standing out as the leader. Frank M. Rutherford of Truckee, an administration man, will be a candidate if Young shows any signs of weakness, but Rutherford and Young spent the afternoon together laying strategic lines for the administration, and it is generally believed that Rutherford will become floor leader. Howard J. Fish of Pasadena is slated for Speaker pro tem.

All Assemblymen counted to be in aympathy with Gov. Johnson are being summoned to a non-partisan caucus at 10:45 a.m. Monday. It is expected to agree upon Young, and if a majority of the House attend, as the administration leaders believe. Young's election will be practically assembly fight will be reading again.

Gray Hair Restored in from Four to Eight Days Trial Bottle Proves It

Mary T. Goldman's Hair Color Restorer has worked this miracle for hundreds of thousands of gray haired people in the 20 years it has been on the market. So, like all successful products, it has been copied until even the con-scientious dealer, who intends to give his customers the original Mary T. Gold-man, is confused.

You want only the famous Hair Color Restorer invented by Mary T. Goldman—not a crude dye, but a pure colorless liquid that is clean and dainty as water. You can be sure of getting it if you will look for the label which shows a woman with while hair on one side of her head, the other restored to its original color by

Your druggist will have it; or, if you prefer, send direct to us. We gladly take care of personal orders.

The bones are clean of flesh and were in a sack which evidently had been burled but a few months. BEATUY DOCTOR TELLS SECRET

Detroit Seauty Doctor Gives Simple Recipe to Darken Gray Hair and Promote Its Growth.

Miss Alice Whitney, a well-known beauty doctor of Detroit, Mich., recently gave out the following statement: "Anyone can prepare a simple mixture at home, at very little cost, that will darken gray hair, promote its growth and make it soft and glossy. To half a pint of water add 1 oz. of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and % oz. of glycerine. These ingredients can be bought at any drug store at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. This will make a gray-haired person look twenty years younger. It is also fine to promote the growth of the hair, relieve itching and scalp diseases, and is excellent for dandruff and falling hair."

No Trouble to Remove Superfluous Hair

(Toilet Tips)

It is an easy matter to rid the skin of objectionable hair or fuzz, if you proceed as follows: Mix a paste with some water and a little powdered delatone, apply to hairy surface and in 2 or 3 minutes rub off, wash the skin and the hairs are gone. This method of banishing hairy growths is painless and does not mar the skin, but to avoid disappointment, be certain to get real delatone. (Tollet Tips)

If the papers are mailed to the officers at the armory, which is usually the case, several days are lost between time of mailing from Sacramento and the date of receipt by the officer when he goes to the armory.

In addition to this the officers are required to do the routine work, a mass of paper work, and enough other work to consume more of their time than an ordinary wage-earner can afford to give.

RED-TAPE WORK.

Passes Three Great Cities and Takes Seventh Place for Circulation Among Those of Country.

The Los Angeles Public Library has taken its place as seventh among all the cities of the country, based upon circulation of books during 1914, having passed Buffalo, Cincinnati and St. Louis. The figures for the year show 1,715,000 volumes borrowed, an increase of 25 per cent. over 1913. It is now the most-used library west of Chicago and almost equals Boston in the number of books loaned. It surpasses the library of that city in one important point—the number of citizens holding borrowers' cards. The figures are: Los Angeles, 22,779; Boston, 92,600. The gain of one-fourth reported by the librarian here is made in the face of reports of practically no increase whatever from eastern cities, which unite in blaming it on financial conditions and the "movies."

suddenly brought to light. It is quite possible that, if conditions do not change soon, they may carry a few oysters, garnished with American Beauty roses and some other wonderful blossoms, in future Passadena Rose Tournaments.

Wholesalers yesterday announced that the select bivalve, beginning with the first of February, would sell at a trifle higher price. That kind of an announcement has become as regular as the report that the French have taken Alsace. The only difference lies in the fact that the oyster's advance is usually a reality. Since the days, when oysters sold by the pint and quart, several years ago, to the present, is a far cry.

Retailers, instead of advertising a quart of bulk oysters for 25 cents, are advertising a dozen bulk oysters for the same amount. It would take almost $1 to get the same number of oysters in that latest retailing style. Canned oysters are selling by the ounce and not by old-fashioned measurements, either. If the government experts are successful in the propagation of the lately-imported Japanese oysters on the Pacific Coast, a few years may see a more abundant supply again. Otherwise, this succulent denizen of the briny deep will soon be a luxury and the man who can secure a dozen of them an object of envy.

work to consume more of their time than an ordinary wage-earner can afford to give.

If there is an absence of enthusiasm in the face of the mass of red-tape the reason is not obscure.

The difficulties in the National Guard are not isolated, by any means. For instance, there is Bakersfield.

Unless its membership is recruited to full strength by the time for the next inspection, Co. L. Second Infantry, with headquarters in that city, will be mustered out of the service. Orders to this effect were received some time ago by Capt. Lucien Beer, but he kept the fact quiet until recently in the hope of getting the needed recruits without publicity. Fifteen men are still needed, and enlistments are slow. The company did have full membership some months back, but between men leaving Bakersfield and enlistments expiring, the ranks have been depleted.

Bakersfield cavairy troop was ordered mustered out of service some months since, and only by a strong appeal to the War. Department was given another chance and passed a second inspection after getting a new captain in command.

The Most Wonderful Outdoor Revel in All America Happily Described by a Los Angeles Girl Who Had the Gayest Night of Her Life.

By JEANNE REDMAN.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 1 (at 2 o'clock in the morning.) This is the greatest night in the history of San Francisco, and the city welcomes the dawn of 1915 with a riot of noise and color. The happy crowds throng Market street from Van Ness avenue to the Ferry building. The street is carpeted with confetti, and overhead the streamers which have been thrown over the trolley wires make a brightly-colored arbor of the broad thoroughfare.

A vast, human stream flows slowly along the street, tangled in the mazes of serpentine. Automobiles are almost at a standstill. and the frenzied blowing of their horns is responded to only by happy laughter and a dash of confetti from the offenders.

But the noise! The din caused by sirens, explosives, city bells and factory whistles, to say nothing of a shouting multitude, can be heard in every remote corner of this great city.

Gay throngs have filled Market street before; the city loved around the world is famous for its carnival spirit, but tonight it has reached a pitch of frenzied delight never felt before. One sand nine hundred and fifteen is here, and San Francisco is beside itself with the joy of it. How long it has seemed in coming! Surely the city has been quivering with emotion for a long time; emotion which found relief in expression of the most primitive sort

The clarion call of revelry came at 5 o'clock, when the factory whistles sent a prolonged and undulating blast through the gathering dusk. Instantly the thrill of excitement, which lies very near to the surface in this invigorating city of fogs and bracing winds, made itself felt and above all, observed, throughout the city. The feeling of fellowship, of enthusiasm, of that other something which goes to make up what we call the spirit of San Francisco, was evident in the happy laughter and gleaming eyes of the people.

IT SNOWED CONFETTI. The festivities began unusually early, and shortly after dark it began to snow confetti. Tons of it! Millions of handfuls of it! Market street is carpeted with it, in all the colors of the rainbow. It trips us up as we dance, and our feet are tangled in the long streamers of "serpentine." In a few hours, however, all this will be gone, and the streets immaculate for the new year; just now it is a gleeful riot of happy humanity Excitement reached its highest pitch at midnight, and having previously wondered how the noise and jollity could be increased, one felt-deafened at the volley of sound that greeted the new year. As the sirens blared forth, a sort of savage gaiety seized the people, and standing at the doorway of the St. Francis Hotel, I said to the woman beside me, "Why, we are all going mad!" And in that moment of frantic cheers, during which one's blood seemed to turn to wine, I felt that we were.

THE MARCH OF THE COOKS.

Just as the siren was screaming forth its welcome to the new year from the roof of the St. Francis, there came a procession into the lobby of the hotel. It was the traditional march of the cooks with Chef Victor Hertzler in the lead. The figures 1915 came first, built out of sugar, and glistening in the light. Then came nine cooks, each bearing an illuminated miniature palace on a platter, giving in outline and detail the features of the various main ures at the fair. The Tower of Jewels was a masterpiece of pastry and sugar. The palaces of Machinery, Arts and Education they were all there-carried, each of them, in the arms of their maker. Ninety entertainers went from room to room, singing and dancing and wearing all sorts of gaudy costumes. The clerks wore clowns' caps, and the bellboys were garbed in various elaborate cos-

The exposition element was the new note in this year's cele bration. There is a deep note of satisfaction, of fulfillment, of through all the merrymaking.

This year San Francisco invites the world, and is already proud hostess well aware of her accomplishment

The night is warm and clear, the moon is high in the heavens, beaming on the dancing multitude. Dancing is the main form of sement. They dance on the pavements and streets, to the airs of their own singing. They are dancing in the hotels and cafes, in

LIKE THE MOULIN ROUGE.

Perhaps the most picturesque dancing is at the beach. Here the atmosphere is like nothing else in America. The Moulin Rouge on Saturday night in Paris is like this. The faces and types are unfamiliar to the observer; one wonders where all these foreigners come from, and how it is that they seem so much at home. Many of them are, of course, but where do they stay when they are not here, and why are they so unfamiliar? That auburn-haired boy, with the first faint beginnings of a mustache, and the heavy, dark eyes, who sits very close to the unmistakably respectable woman at the next table, and turns his languishing eyes on her with such obvious meaning, where does he come from, and where will he keep in hiding until the next carnival? The pudgy and ineffectual escort of the respectable woman is secretly annoyed, but not for the world would he show it, for he is imbued with a vague feeling that this is all goodfellowship and that he must be a part of it, and so it

At 2 o'clock the floor manager howls through a megaphone that no more liquor will be served, but that he "will entertain all night." At the chorus of disapproval that this invokes, he slightly modifies his statement with, "Well, there won't be any more glasses on the tables."

THE JOY OF LIVING.

Out of this into the cool air, and back to town to the Tavern Is the Tavern a trap for strangers? Has it nothing to say to San Franciscans? It has its habitues, of course, among the city people, but it has not temperament. The waiters save the Tavern. They are foreigners, and they supply the necessary element of cosmopolitanism, which the place would otherwise lack. It would be difficult to name the nationality of most of these waiters, but certainly they are not Irish-Americans. An Irish-American servant is a contradiction in terms. Even on New Year's Eve the waiters at the Tavern are not too hurried to make suggestions which will tempt the most jaded taste. However, the cafe on O'Farrell street is dearer to the San Franciscans. It has the Tavern waiters plus Here is temperament; here are good humor and good behavior; the central idea is the same throughout the city cafes, but in this one there is an atmosphere of spontaneity, and joie de vivre that no other place in the city can surpass. It is the very quintessence of the spirit of San Francisco; the many tables with their perfect napery, in a room not so large as the average lecture hall; the champagne coolers and the long-necked bottle; the flower-bedecked

The valuation work of the com mission will begin in real earnest this week with the arrival of Chief Engi-heer Richard Sachse and Assistant Engineer George R. Maxwell. The work here. Several of the commissolving the commission's junior engineers have been here for some weeks going over the Edison company's maps and other data on its system. occasions people give processions and fetes for days, with fireworks and illumination.

The court of the Palace was cleared for dancing, and one of the most attractive figures was Miss Milo Abercromble, who was dressed as the 1915 girl. Harrison Fisher has proclaimed her the most beautiful California girl, and as she danced she was followed by delight and admiration.

San Francisco wears a garment of street revelry more becomingly that most cities, and with more ease; probably because the cafe and street life is an intimate part of the cosmopolitan atmosphere of the city.

No sooner is it said, "There will be dancing on Market street," than Market street is transformed into a somewhat riotous, but none the less well-ordered, dance hall. One swings is asily into step with one's partner and away we go with the ease of a long-established custom

As we were carried from one cafe to another in motors, which dragged their weight of streaming ribbons after them, we felt the contrast between the lights and galety of the city streets, and the silent majesty of the folden Gate, and the dark aisles of trees in the great park, which brings us the necessary mood of languor and weariness to make our homecoming a relief after all this wild night of welcome. Pending the completion of the en-gineers' valuation work, the petition of the city of Los Angeles to the com-mission to fix the compensation to be paid the Edison company for its disgineers' valuation work, the petition of the city of Los Angeles to the commission to fix the compensation to be paid the Edison company for its distributing system has been placed on the suspense docket. There it will remain until the engineers are through. Then the commission, in all probabilities, will have to give another six months to weighing evidence, following the hearing, and to the disposal of demands to reopen the case after the decision is handed down.

But all these will be only preliminary to the main event—a legal fight between the city and the Edison company that is not expected to reach a decision until the United States Supreme Court has had an opportunity to pass on several constitutional questions. That these, questions are involved is admitted even by City Attorney Stephens. Meanwhile the $1,300,000 in annual revenue that the people have been promised under the power project to care for aqueduct bonds and reduce taxes is apparently as far off as a lowering of the cost of living.

Burglars Enter Home with Passkey and Take Eight Hundred Dollars Worth, Including Heirloom.

CX-"BOSS" DIES FROM MORPHINE

PICTURESQUE FIGURE OF "OLD DAYS" SNUFFED OUT.

Tom Savage, 47 years old, forme Councilman, political boss of the old Eighth Ward, and one of the picturthe '80s and '90s, is dead. A victim in the Receiving Hospital at I o'clock

Acrie of Eagles, that body will have charge of his funeral tomorrow afternoon.

In what are referred to as the "old days" of Los Angeles, everybody here knew Tom Savage. His activities were chiefly confined to business of the "sporting" variety, but old-timers at the Central Police Station declare he was one of the squarest men of his lik that ever came to their notice. He was always loyal to his friends and it is said-of him that he spent thousands of dollars just in giving "good fellows" lifts when they were down and out. When Tom Savage was elected to the City Council in 1894, representing the "Bloody Eighth" Ward, he took up his duties in a most sincere way and, contrary to the expectations of many, always voted for the best interests of the city; that is, instead of supporting measures which a man of the questionable element would naturally be expected to champion, he opposed them. He served but one term, however, not being a candidate at the next election.

Mr. Savage at one time owned a notorious resort at Los Angeles and Commercial streets and when Los Angeles was "wide open" his word was considered law in that district. He and May Savage were known as the "king and queen" of the segregated district. During the regime of Mayor Harper

M UST WORK FOR FOREIGN TRADE.
It had been assumed that with the breaking-out of the war American manufacturers had only to go out into the neutral markets of the world and fill them with American goods. But it is found that the conquest of such markets is not as easy as ny expected it would be.

Merchants in foreign countries have been ccustomed to dealing with England and France and Germany, and were used to their ways, which conformed to the wishes and sentiments of the buyers. Europe has managed to gather the lion's share of trade in those markets because European countries sought to make the goods that the buying countries wanted and to pack them in such way as pleased them and also to extend credit beyond any average time usual with manufacturers and jobbers in the

It is well that our people awake at once to the fact that to win foreign markets and to hold them requires work from the very start and that work must be of the most practical kind. Among other things it means the establishment of banks in several countries where now there are no branches of American financial houses. We must also follow the advice of our very intelligent consuls and PACK GOODS AS THE BUYERS IN FOREIGN COUNTRIES WANT THEM PACKED, whether it seems reasonable to ourselves or not.

absurdities on our part, according to the opinion of the merchant abroad, the man we want to sell to. We need the co-operaof government as fully as it may be had and the criticism of dollar diplomacy cease once for all. Every govern ment that attends to the foreign trade of its subjects or citizens exercises a great deal of sympathy and judgment and support for the foreign trade, and they have no nonsense about its being dollar diplomacy when their trade flourishes.

HARBOR DEFENSES.

The construction of the batteries that are to defend Los Angeles was begun yesterday. It is needless to remark that this work should have been started long ago. It is needless to add that similar pres tions for defense should have begun at all ports of importance long ago.

The United States is the richest nation in the world. It is the least protected of any important country. We do not seem to realize that when the jurisdiction of a nation was established as extending three miles at sea, it was not expected that guns would ever shoot beyond that range, and that now naval guns are shooting eight and ten, and heavy artillery are shooting fifteen and more miles. Our navy, there is every readoubt but that it is inadequate. We have very few first-class fighting ships. Behind the actual waging of war is the spirit that creates war, and no president or ruler or statesman or divine can avert war till this spirit has been laid. This brings us to the undeniable fact that a strange new note has been ringing round the earth since the opening of the twen-tieth century. And it is not a Christian note; it is not national, nor occidental, nor anti-religious nor anarchical that it as reanti-religious, nor anarchica!—it is a reversion to first principles—and it has been gaining in power since the close of the year 1899, the year in which a then little

And on and on ever since then the cult of Nietzscheism has been spreading far and wide; it has been translated into every language, its followers have increased a hundredfold its processes are coloring the polisis. dredfold, its precepts are coloring the poli cies of all nations. Many who have never read a syllable of Nietzsche's writing are nevertheless unconsciously molding their opinions according to his harsh, virile and compelling theses.

Is Nietzsche, whose teachings have found their apotheosis in the savage outbreak of warring Europe, the menace of the twen-tieth century? Is it against this new prophet and the subtle esoteric influence of his doctrines that the Christian world must embrace itself for a spiritual life and death struggle? If so, the Christian world must take some more drastic course than appealing piteously to the President of the United States to frame a new world con

It must fight the growing influence of Nietzscheism with a Christianity—not such as was sufficient to convert the fishermen of Galiliee or the pagans of Ephesus and Rome—but with a Christianity capable of getting a grip on the modern mind of a scientific age and welding into its most iron moods the gold of the ancient religion. For Nietzsche is an iconoclast, iron and modern. His hard virility, his master

Is not Europe indorsing Nietzsche's principles of redemption by force alone? "You say it is a good cause which halloweth even say it is a good cause which halloweth even war. I say unto you it is the good war which halloweth every cause." Europe is already ahead of her teacher; she is hallowing a bad war. "What is more harmful than vice?" he asks. "Plty for the weak and helpless." Is this to be the next step taken in this war of the super-nations?

Nietzsche was also a Dionysian. He re-joiced in the struggle and also in the full surfeit of its fruits; he was a man without limits. With conjectures beyond things terrestrial he was not concerned. He taught the earth for earth-men, till the

"We should only believe in a God that knows how to dance." "Pangs of conscience are indecent." "The demand to be loved is the greatest of presumptions." "Man shall be trained for war and woman for the re-creation of the warrior. All else is folly." "Thou goest to woman; do not is folly." "Thou goest to woman; do not forget thy whip." "Therefore the spirit that has won its freedom tramples upon that contemptible kind of comfort which tea-grocers. Christians, cows, women and democrats worship in their dreams." These are some of the texts with which Nietzsche challenges the Sermon on the Mount. Is not his atmosphere already tinging American thought? The surface is not yet rippled but the undercurrent is there. He has no priesthood, no ritual, no house o worship, and therein lies the strength and the danger of the man. For his words are full of force and fire and they sink into the minds of many thoughtful men in their common unemotional hours. These are im-pressions that last, they are not transient

About Sun-day-school picnics, vested choirs, the tune of a hymn, the abolition of alcohol, card playing sinners, funds for foreign mission building larger churches, renting mor pews. And all the time the strong siler sweep of Nietzschean thought is soaring up ward into the moral codes of man, in a stream that if unchecked may sweep away Christianity like a chip in a mill race.

Impossible you say? Christianity is too firmly founded? Yes, and so was the peace of Europe. And already Christianity is floundering to find the reason for war and addressing appeals for relief to a civil excoutive. That woman is essentially Chris-tian, and that she is in a noble sense stronger than man—and that Nietzsche dismissed her as of small importance—in this lies the chief hope that spirituality is bound the long run to overcome materia that love, not force, must finally redeem the

THE MOTHER-IN-LAW.

When my wife's mother comes along to visit us for half a year, existence is a grand sweet song, and all our worries disappear, She hustles round from sun to sun, com-pounding doughnuts, pies and cakes; she shows us how things should be run, points out our errors and mistakes. She sews nev buttons on my garb, and if I have some pains or aches, she always knows a magic yarb that knocks them out in seven shakes. She gives the house a shaking up, till every chamber knows a change; she feeds the cat and heals the pup, which suffered from a sort of mange. Beneath my fig tree and my vines I sit and watch the merry whirl: the cook indignantly resigns, and also the assistant girl. "We have endured as much," they say, "as human flesh and blood can stand, and so we go to stay away till that they say, "as human flesh and blood can stand, and so we go, to stay away till that flerce female has been canned." She makes the grocer stand around, she makes the milkman toe the mark; we get full measure for a pound when she is captain of our bark. I dread to part with that good dame, I wish she might forever stay; for life is wearisome and tame when my wife's mother goes away! I've heard some married men complain of their wives' mothers as a frost, but I'm most happy, I maintain, when I am by an expert bossed. WALT MASON.

Which leaves us 24 days to sell this entire stock of Pictures, Frames, Lamps, Mirrors, Furniture, Baskets, Art Leather Goods, Copper and Brass, Society Stationery, unusual Books, etc.—the most complete Art Stock in this city, amounting at retail to over Fifty Thousand Dollars.

Commencing Monday, January 4th, 1915, at 9 a.m., we will offer this entire stock at a discount of Forty Per Cent., which is much less than cost.

Merchandise which costs $10.00 is usually marked to retail at $15.00-40% off this makes it $9.00. It costs 331/3% to do business. One-third of $9.00 is $3.00. So we are selling you for $6.00 an article which cost us $10.00. The air is full of Clearing Sales, Overloaded Sales, Moving Sales, Making Room Sales, etc., but as a plain matter of fact the only time the public gets a chance to Buy Goods at Less Than Cost is when a merchant fails or when a merchant quits business.

If any department buyer in this city marked down his entire stock to cost or less he would be discharged and his business reputation ruined.

With Us Necessity Knows No Law

Every piece of merchandise in our store is marked in plain figures at the regular selling price from which you will get a discount of 40%. The stock is all new and the best of its kind. As in all first-class "Art Stores" there are no duplicates. The goods sold in real art stores and the art goods sold in department stores are so "Oh," awfully different.

TO GIVE OWNER MIDWINTER ROSES IN CONTESTANTS' GARDENS

Minimizer roses are blooming in thousands of gardens in Southern California, including the many entered for The Times prizes for the best results secured by amateur growers. That the spring bloosoming season will bring a glorious display all through the Southland is certain. Nurserymen say that the enormous demand for new rose bushes es of cholce quality a year ago has been exceeded this year. In the two seasons more plants were set out, her-ticulturists say, than in five ordinary years.

Many gardens now are producing fine roses with a delicacy of color and refinement of form characteristic of winten-forced blooms. Even in the gardens of those who believe in giving rose bushes a long rest there are just now many mangilicent roses. These will disappear with the annual January prunfing and there will be no more until the new shoots burst into 100. One of the carling gestions in the way of attractions for exposition year visitors to Los Angeles and vicinity was that rose bushes be planted in enormous numbers. Here, where soil and climatic conditions are uncacelled, they can be depended upon to produce a spectacle that will delight and amaxe all who are fortunate enough to see them.

With a purpose to make the Yuma tribe the wealthiest of all American Indian clans, through stimulation of farming, the Yuma Indian Agricultural Association was formed a few days ago at the Arizona city. A constitution was adopted, officers elected and an appeal made to the tribal pride.

It was declared that, with the best of lands, the Yumas may become a race of high achievement by concerted effort along this one line. The tribesmen were urged to obey their Uncle Samuel and make the most of what nature offers.

The officers chosen are: Wilfred Parker, president; John Curran, secretary, and Sennen Bussell, treasurer.

"The Poor Little Rich Girl," which has captured the fancy of Los Angeles theater-goers, young and old, begins its second week at the Mason tomorrow night.

Dream plays are not new, but there is absolute novelty and a great deal of subtlety in the way Miss Gates has blended fact and fancy in her visualization of the fantastic imaginings of a delirium-stricken child. The theme of the play is the neglect of children by parents devoted to money-making and social ambitions. Humor, humanity, poetry, pathos, satire and spectacular wonders are all poured from the melting pot of Miss Gates's imagination into this play.

It is a play that will please children because of quaint characters and beautiful stage pictures, but its great appeal is to the mature and understanding.

Little Leonie Dana is making a tremendous hit as "The Poor Little Rich Girl."

Brieux's "Damaged Goods" is to be the next attraction at the Mason, to be shown for the first time at popular prices.

Margaret Mayo's famous farce, "Baby Mine," with Beatrice Nichols in the leading feminine role, is proving a record-breaker at the Burbank, and so great has been the demand for Fred Pisano and Kitty Bingham, western favorites, will return with a new act made up of songs and stories. The pair make up as a young Italian and a buxom Irish girl.

The Cabaret Trio, consisting of Billy de Vere, Sid Malkan and the blind pianist, Arthur Stone, will appear in entirely new songs.

A big extra feature will be "Saooaer," the intelligent buildog, making his first appearance in the three-a-day. Others will be Mile. Amoros, a French girl of the Parisian boulevards, and Ben Mulvey, in acrobatic dances and songs, and Alvin and Kenny, doing new stunts in flying rings.

"Officer 666" is booked at the Republic Theater for the coming week, starting Monday, "Tillie's Punctured Romance" being shown for the last times today and tonight. It is a cohan & Harris production in five parts, and the swift-moving story of "Officer 666" makes the comedy offering distinctive among its kind. It is really a melodramatic farce and well adapted to all min presentation.

"Officer 666" is the work of Augustin McHugh and one of the most successful plays of the last decade. Under the management of George M. Cohan and Sam H. Harris, the melodramatic farce played 488 cities during its first tour as a stage production.

From title to tailpiece it bristles with action and spontaneous fun. There is literally a laugh in every foot. Freedom from vulgarity and the slapstick type of comedy makes "Officer 666" distinctive by comparison. Its fun is the clean, high-class fun of ludicrous situations and clever comedy.

This singer, whom everyone loves and looks forward to hearing, is unique in the world of modern music. He really belongs among the minstrels—those man who sang of the deeds, the loves, the joys, the sorrows, the merrymakings and the sufferings of men, not as matters of "art," but as records of life. In simpler days before the railroad and telegraphs he would have wandered from castle to castle, or from hamlet to hamlet, charming each allie and sure of a welcome no heartier than that he enjoys today. With a lovely tenor voice, one of rare timbre, a true Irish heart responding as a harp to the everyday joys and sorrows of the world, he is without doubt one of he best-loved singers in the country. carefully selected to meet all tastes and including at least four operas which never have been sung in this city in their entirety, the National Grand Opera Company promuses much both in the way of artistic excellence and operatic novelty. Big and picturesque ballets will be featured in several of the operas, and the staging, it is said, will be the most elaborate ever disclosed here by any similar organization. To accomplish this the company is bringing here from abroad three carloads of scenery, costumes and "properties," while the productions will be made under the direction of a skilled stage technician.

That the opera season will be made an inportant society event already is assured. Season tickets have been on saile during the past week, and the list of subscribers makes it certain that society will be largely represented at all performances. Seats for separate performances. Will be placed on sale at the box office of Clune's Auditorium Theater Monday morning. a special window having been provided to care for patrons, so as to avoid unnecessary delay and confusion.

The repertoire's for the first week of the season to be announced later:

Monday night and Wednesday mattinee, an opulent production of "Aida," the cast including such distinguished artists as Luigi Poggi-Revera, reigning dramatic tenor of Italy, who comes here from La Scala; Bartolomeo Dadone, dramatic baritone; Itale Piechi, and the proposed establishment of a Municipal Military Band, for the purpose of giving free daily out-of. A big ballet will be a feature.

Tuesday and Friday nights Gounod's "Faust" will be sung by a cast of great artists, headed by Constantino in the name role, and including Tina Schnetti as Marguerite, Olinto Lombardi as Mephistopheles, and Filippo Bennyan as Valentine. The complete "Faust" ballet will be presented with the opera. Wednesday night and at the Saturday matinee "Thais" will be sung in English, with the beautiful Evalina Parnell as the seductive courtesan of Alexandria, and with Millo Picco in the barltone role. In this opera, too, the ballet will be most elaborate, Miss Parnell having the support of the company's entire corps of dancers in the famous "Dance of the Seven Vells." "Thais" is Evalina Parnell's greatest role. She is said to sing its most difficult arias with marvelous artistry, and to disclose also rare capability as an actress. Abroad and in the East she has been enthusiastically praised likewise for the wondrous grace and beauty she reveals in the dance episode.

On Thursday and Saturday nights "I Lombardi" will be sung för the first time in Los Angeles. This is a Verdi opera, its story set in the time of the crusades. It will be staged elaborately and the cast will include Poggi-Revera, Picchi, Sarame Rainoldi and other artists.

en Are Women Past the Marryin Age?

"Tis second life; it grows into the Warms ev'ry vein and beats in ev'ry

Bachelor girls look about them and see slips of girls of sweet sixteen carrying off matrimonial prizes—attracting sensible men of mature ages. This causes them to wonder if they are considered passe in the eyes of such men. With that thought comes the conjecture in their minds, "when are women considered past the marrying age?"

men. With that thought comes the conjecture in their minds, "when are women considered past the marrying age?"

Let us reason the subject out a bit. If all men were of the same mind and inclined to be frivolous, the girls in their early twenties would be the only ones who could hope to be led to the altar. But this is not often the case. I am glad to say. The majority of men, by the time they have reached 30, have learned by experience, through having been brought in contact with young women of different ages, that extreme youth in a wife is a doubtful blessing. He knows that the girl of 16 is not capable of the grand passion which will endure. Her likes and loves are imaginary. What she is infatuated with today she is tired of tomorrow. Her thoughts are on pretty dresses, good-looking young fellows, the latest dances, parties, frolics and fads.

When a girl has reached 25, she has safely passed through the silly age. She is not attracted to a man because he has a love of a curiling mustache, brown, wavy hair, wears fancy clothes and a No. 4 shoe. On the contrary, the plainer the young man the more in favor he stands with her. Sha understands him better; is much more companionable. She realizes the solmnity of the marriage bond; that her entire future will be made or marred by her choice of a husband. When she is five and thirty she is at the height of womanhood's bloom, the perfect rose, with all her beauty unfolded. Her charms are at their best. Her kindness and sympathetic nature appeal to men whose hearts could not be touched by any other kind of women. Much depends on the woman, whether she is a prize in the matrimonial market after this age. If her heart still retains the qualities of youth and her lips their smile, her eyes their brightness, and her manner is cordial, it is an easy matter, if she only knew it, to win the heart of many a crusty bachelor or widower. They sare not looking for the frivolity of youth, or the young woman who expects to wed and raise a family. Neither are they attracted to the

Dear Miss Libbey: I am a young girl asking your advice. I am in love with a young man, but my older brother objects to him going with me. At 19 a girl is not well versed in the ways of the world or the suitability or unfitness of a would-be lover. Your happiness is certainly dear to him. PASADENA.

New Year's Day.

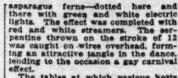

Molly Dear: Staying up all night doesn't suit my style of beauty a bit. I have given it a thorough trial now. three nights running, but practice doesn't make perfect, and I intend going to bed for a week to recever.

New Year's Day being dedicated to Pasadena and her Rose Tournament, we decided to go over there for a couple of days and pretand we were miles away from home and mother. Put up at the Maryland and did positively everything there was to domand talk about a crowded hour of glorious life, why. blessed. we had more than sixty crowded hours, and if fox-trotting can charm one's troubles away, we got in enough to last for the next year, at least.

Oh, such gorgeous weather, seraphic sunshine by day and an adorable moon by night. And beaux galore, two for every day in the week, and three for Sundays at least. Especially at the Valley Hunt Club dance on Wednesday night, when we piroueited strenuously from dewy eve till roseate dawn, entirely used up a 87 pair of white satin elippers, and enlarged our pet bunion far beyond the realms of grace. An awfully distinguished crowd there, of course—the Valley Hunt specializes in distinction. And fox-trotting. Isn't it joily they should happen to go together so admirably?

Pasadena's younger set bloomed all over the place, mostly in empire bodices and elongated ballet skirts. Oh, my dear, width at the hem and the irreducible minimum aloft are with us violently. We show as much as we dare down to breathing point—all our arms, salt-cellars, vaccination marks, dimplea, moles and enchanting blemishes. The merest streak of baby ribbon answers for a shoulder strap to keep the flowing, filmy, flouncing, ankle-high skirt upon our persons. Skirts are very skirty and bodices are modest to vanishing point. A lady with several inches of bodice material looks positively demode, but it's all right to files there yards of tulle cosily round one's shoulders for the draughts.

But I think the belle of the ball was Maude Daggett, she really looked there with green and white electric lights. The effect was completed with red and white streamers. The serpentine thrown on the stroke of 12 was caught on wires overhead, forming an attractive tangle in the dance. If the tables at which various hosts enfect. But I think the belle of the ball was Maude Dagrest, she really looked a picture, her hair in a high roll and her dress in some rich brocaded looking stuff a la pannier—yery Louis guinsy and piquant.

Of course, that'e why so many young charmers were present—all home from school, socially effereuseent, and with all the secret charm of not yet being officially "out." There was one maiden there whose name I didn't discover, with masses of luxuriant dark hair and garbed deliciously in a rose gown that made us all quake with envy. And, of course, the Watson girls were there with Mamma Staats—just as though any Fasadena function would be complete without them. Mrs. Staats looked stunning in a French gown with fetching little black lace effects that attracted the sartorially epicurean eye.

Kate Fowler, too, that dearest of dear young heiresses, with her large, dark, soulful eyes and her slim figure, with mostly blue in her dress to maich the darker shadows of her eyes—It was easy to believe all the charming tales one hears of her beneficence and labors of love.

The Policy and Reason of Our Clearance Sales

Why We Undersell

Supremacy Self-Evident

The size of our establishment makes it unnecessary to guarantee that our output is the largest of any western establishment. The size of our store and the immense number of daily visitors to our establishment makes it self-evident. Our four connecting stores on Broadway with 230 feet frontage, all occupied by us except two small stores sublet on the street, giving us 35 floors of an average size of 50x150, beside our enormous warehouses containing over 100,000 more feet of floor space, together with our several manufacturing departments devotes to the production of mattresses, upholstered furniture, reed furniture, etc., easily distinguishes Barker Bros. as the largest retail household furnishing establishment in Western America and supremely able to "make good" to you in all that it advertises.

No Special Advertising "Sales" Agent

Although approached by several advertising agencies who have been "premoting" special "sales" for other Los Angeles firms, we desire to state that all propositions for handling our clearance along this line were rejected by us, preferring to conduct our own advertising as in the past and not resort to the more sensational agency sale methods. We therefore wish to say that every representation announced in connection with this clearance is thoroughly conservative, may be depended upon absolutely, and is backed by the entire resources of this establishment. We know that under these conditions the public will have full confidence in the merit of this event, and accord it the same serious consideration as previous events.

-the HOME is the foundation of our lives-in its attractiveness, its comforts, its conveniences, its pleasures, its beauty, it contributes to our every welfare, happiness and peace of mind-or lacking in the necessary essentials to do this, it fails to satisfy, and sends us where we doubtless should not have to seek for rest and recreation. Therefore it is of the greatest importance that we should make the home our first and foremost thought-so livable that we shall thoroughly and completely enjoy it—so home-like that it shall prove the magnet for all the family and be the center of interest for every member of the household. With that result, therein will be true contentment-preservation of home-ties and REAL living! Worthy furniture is the foundation of such a home.

denly a French shell dropped about 200 yards ahead of them, and a few minutes later another only 100 yards short. An officer was calling Haeseler's attention to this when a third shell fell only fifty yards away. "Two more, gentlemen," remarked the old marshal, "and they will hit the walnut tree." As the party moved away another shell exploded still nearer, and a moment later the tree was squarely hit. It was soon ascertained that the Mayor of the village was in telephone communication with the French battery, and was directing its fire. The story does not tell what was the fate of the Mayor.

Despite his great age the Count still has a remarkable endurance. It is said that he has remained in the saddle as much as fourteen hours a day in some parts of the present war. He is very abstemious in food and drink; he lives chiefly from milk and eggs, eating only a little meat; and he drinks no alcohol whatever.

Close to our cave lie the underground villas of the eurgeons and the battalion commander and his adjutant, also the club, which has been named the Thirsty Cavedweller.

"The inn is a pearl of an institution, suited alike for summer and winter traffic, and recommended to people suffering from nerves, ennui, superculture and sickly esthetics. It is also an excellent cure for alcoholism. A physician is constantly in attendance. Prices are reasonable, and living in the club costs nothing except possibly your life. The interior equipment and decorations are charming. You wriggle through the narrow passage into the restaurant, and then fall down two steps, to discover afterwards that you can stand upright in the dining-room, which has a floor area of about sixty square feet.

One day a messenger came, and tobacco, hurling back and forth greetings and epithets.

More days passed and still neither side received orders either to attack or to withdraw. Some sort of coperation seemed necessary. Accordingly, the Germans hoisted a white flag, and, advancing under this, entered the allied trench for a conference. The result was an agreement was reached that it would be more comfortable for all to live in one cived orders.

The English frowned, growled; the French grew excited. Both sides had by agreement laid aside their rifles; but both sides still had their fists. Both used them. A free-for-all fight followed, and the unique compact came to an end.

ONDON, Dec. 13.—A medical officer who has been making a study of the "psychology of courage" at the British front, says that most men confess to a feeling of fear which only wears off after several days in the trenchea. "But once this physical instinct of terror is conquered, there comes," says the medical man, "a second courage, which, while not despising danger, is able to discount it. Under fire these men find a self hitherto unsuspected, an elusive quality which for want of a better title is called manhood."

He says:

"The soldier learns first to control, then to measure, his fear. He learns have designed to discount upon experiencing this or that particular feeling when his hour comes—this depending upon temperament and circumstances—he can, I believe, count upon soon achieving the second courage which is the priceless possession of the veteran. Under fire he may lose every preconceived notion he ever cherished or shunned, but it is highly probable that he will find himself."

Postmaster Crow of Farber, Mo., received a letter some time ago from a man named Briggs, living in the Wisconsin Soldiers' Home, who inquired if Mr. Crow knew a man named J. B. Schroil, who ran a lumber yard at Farber thirty-five years ago. The writer said he gave Mr. Schroil a note for $50 on a lumber bill which he supposed had been settled until recently he discovered that he still owed it. The letter was sent to Mr. Scholl, now living at Fitzgerald, Ga., in his eighty-eighth year. Briggs sent Schroil a draft for the amount. The former lumber dealer said that he did not receil such a note.

GROVE'S MUSIC SIMPLIFIER.

Time, in music, is something that must be learned by practice and experience, and must be drilled into the pupil after measurement of time becomes natural. Without this, no text book in music will enable one to be goed in time. A student must make a study of rhythm by measures with duration of each note according to its value and relation to the particular time marked. By the aid of "Grove's Music Simplifier" and the knowledge of its chords, one can more rapidly put into practice the theory of time.

TWELFTH LESSON

LAST LESSON OF THIS SERIES

SECOND EDITION, Copyright, 1905, International Copyright Secured. Copyright 1903-4 by W. SCOTT GROVE, Scranton, Pa.

The last of the series of twelve lessons in this simple method of music is presented today. The keys which these charts interpret are D flat and B flat minor. Both of these keys are dismaster because of the large number of flats, but the charts make them simple and easy to learn. The lower chart on this lesson gives the chords of the key of D flat, while the chords of its the key of B flat minor, are given on the upper chart. The top, middle and lower sections of each chart give the three chords of each key, and these are all-sufficient for accompaniments. It would be a secured to play in perfect harmony.

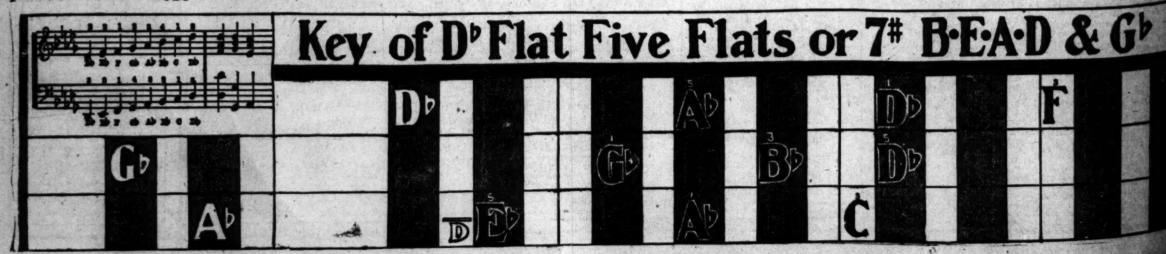

The white letters are to be played with the left hand and the black letters with the right hand.

Having placed the chart on the piane or organ, play the white letter on the top section with the left hand, and then the three black letters in unison with the right hand.

Next play the middle section in the same way, then the lower section, and then return to the top section. The small white letter D with a dash above it, which gives the chart position, must not be played.

After a brief practice these chords can be memorized and you may play without the use of the chart. But with the chart a person who never struck a note on the piane or organ before a few minutes play the harmonious chords correctly, and then accompany his or her own songs or the songs of friends. Proficiency requires practice, but no previous knowledge of masic. If you to delve deeply into the mysteries of music, the charts give you the best possible foundation on which to base a musical education. A knowledge of the keys and their chords underlies all the into the accomplished musician.

Every triad in black letters is marked 1, 3, 5. Always read triads 1, 3, 5, no matter what position. Triad 1 5 5 -marked—third position, 5, the highest; always read it so. 25 1 first position, 1, the highest; read 1 5 5 1 sition, 3, the highest, read on and so with every triad major or minor.

Steele returns to London after ten years of voluntary extle, during which he has nursed an injured heart. He believes Lady Hilary to be the wife of the man she married—but the man is dead. He refuses to let Billy explain, so that it falls upon the woman to make cautious advances. Occupying the apartment next to Steele, with only a wall between them, she calls him up by telephone each evening to wish him a pleasant "good night." He soon succumbs to the sweet voice and unfolds a confession over the wire that leads to an appointment—and to happiness.

over the wire that leads to an appointment—and to happiness.

In the meantime, Valeria has been busy, Billy loves her, but that doesn't do much good. She fiares forth in a red rage and tells him (as many women in fiction have told many men of recent months; in fact, the fictional women have grown exceeding impudent of late) that she does not love him, only wanted his money, and all that sort of thing.

Two-thirds of the way the book holds the interest if one reads for the story; but the remainder of the way it drags—all of the excitement is over, and Mrs. Barclay, dwelling on the psychology of emotions and the higher metaphysical manifestations of love, is far from entertaining or informing.

NORTHLAND ROMANCE. THE QUITTER. By Jacob Fisher. The John C. Winston Company, Philadelphia.

Winston Company, Philadelphia.

IT HE QUITTER" is the name a lady of leisure—but respectability—gives to Ranseford Hallam, a respectable gentleman of leisure, when urging him to fare into the Northland wilds and secure contraband fur for her so that she may wear it and make jealous all women of her acquaintance.

traband fur for her so that she may wear it and make jealous all women of her acquaintance.

And "The Quitter" is the title that Mr. Fisher, with ironical intent, has given to the story of this dashing, smashing, gallant, brave, fearless, honorable, impeccable, etc., scion of wealth who resents the aspersion on his manhood and hikes toward the North Pole. Almost at the end of his journey he finds a daughter of wilderness, a beautiful, unschooled, white maiden who is, a few hours before his arrival, left an orphan by the death of her father.

She is a very unsophisticated young maiden; doesn't know anything of sex differentiation, or of love, or of the value of gold—though she seeks a gold mine—and assists Hallam to find the contraband fur for the lady of leisure back in the States.

No Northland romance would be complete without the hero and heroine getting lost in a snowstorm, and the hero making a regular "heroic" struggle and barely succeeding in saving the lives of both from the wrathful elements. "The Quitter" is a complete Northland romance.

And they emerge from the snowstorm at a fur company's station where a big Scotchman, who drinks by himself and plays cards with his squaw, holds command. As "no law of man nor God runs north of fifty-three," the Scotchman tries to get the girl and Hallam again demonstrates that he is a sixty-horse-power hero. After numerous delays and frays the hero and hepoine reach the States—and the hero has completely forgotten the lady of leisure.

It is a lively story, not told with any particular mastery and is decidedly melodramatic.

ANNE OF THE BLOSSOM SHOP. By Isla May Mullina. The Page Company, Boston.

THE sequel to "The Blossom Shop" be longs to that class of Sunday-school fiction which is cheap and worthless as the much and justly condemned luridly sensational. "Anne of the Blossom Shop" is perfectly harmless, it is true; and the luridly sensational is not. But "Anne of the Blossom Shop" is utterly without merit from a literary standpoint. Perhaps many young girls may "be improved" by reading it; perhaps if they never read anything worse they will be very good maidens all their lives, but, if they take on the color of the book, they will truly be insipid.

We now find Anne "growing up," at the

of the book, they will truly be insipld.

We now find Anne "growing up," at the age of thirteen; and the author has attempted to show something of a young girl's changing emotions as she merges into womanhood. Having never merged into womanhood ourselves we cannot say when the transition is accurately depicted; but we can say that, having read Isla May Mullina's interpretation of it, we know no more about a girl's emotions, fancies and development than we did before.

The story is intended to be cheery. Now

The story is intended to be cheery. Now and then a few attempts are made at humor. A very faint love story is run through the plot—or would run through it if the story had a plot. Anne finds Donald, a fair youth of some sixteen summers, stuck in the mud. Donald is pulled out. An introduction follows. Christman is worked. In the mud. Donald is pulled out. An introduction follows. Christmas is worked into the story with a "cheery" celebration; a baby escapes from Anne's care and falls in the creek and is is rescued by a dog—those are the two "dramatic situations." Of course, Donald and Anne are too voung to think of marriage, but events maneuver so that they sail together for Europe—properly chaperoned.

CRUSADER AND INDIAN.

CRUSADER AND INDIAN.

THE CRYSTAL ROOD. By Mrs. Howard Gould.
John Laie Company, New York.

SELDOM have we seen a more unique plot. A plot doesn't make a book, but it is one of the essentials. "The Crystal Rood" is based on a conversion of the biblical observation that "the sins of the fathers are visited upon the children." Some generations before the action of the story opens, Pope Alexander of Siena confers upon Philip of Exeter, a crusader and the bravest and most gallant of the brave and gallant, a crystal rood—a cross of glass of exquisite workmanship.

The descendant of Philip of Exeter is

SELECTIONS PROM TREITSCHKE'S LECTURES
ON POLITICS. Translated by Adam L. Gowans. Frederick A. Stokes Company. New York.

I EINRICH VON TREITSCHKE was the apostle of blood and iron, even as Bis-marck, even as Nietzsche. The histo-rian and the statesman and the philosopher took the premise that might makes right; and Treitschke pointed to the scrolls of Clio for his arguments and for his justificasaid Treitschke, "the duty of sparing men is entirely swallowed up in the higher duty of annihilating the enemy."

He defended militarism—and Treitschke was an admirable lecturer, a convincing, en-thusiastic writer and orator, who devoted the whole of his life to writing and lectur-ing on history—on the ground that it was essential to the development of national virility; he scorned the British love of ath-letics and sports with the statement that the British, in playing games, lost sight of the ulterior purpose of strength and skill.

For him, honor among nations consisted intirely in taking every advantage possible entirely in taking every advantage possible for the aggrandizement of the nation's people. He insisted that a nation should be jealous of its honor and quick to resent insults to its honor. "It is one of the most admirable facts in history," he declares, "that a nation can recover from material loss far sooner than from the slightest insult to its honor."

The right of nations to break treaties when or how they please is expounded in reason, is quite sure that she never saw such an Indian before. The girl sails for France; the Indian follows. And eventually the dyes wear off of his body, and he stands forth in the eyes of ail as a white man, and some may be justified in thinking it a miracle—especially as about the neck of Rushing Water is the crystal rood which he wore when stolen by the squaw.

As may be seen, it's a peculiar story—an exceptional conception. And, though Mrs. Gould has laid on the bright colors of romance rather thickly in places, it is an acceptable book.

THE BLIND SPOT By Justus Miles Forman. Harper & Bros. New York.

16 THE BLIND SPOT leaves the reader ruminating upon the trick played by the author against Arthur Stone, who comes near to being the hero. We are told that Arthur Stone, the cold-hearted, but conscientious, reformer, fails because he has a "blind spot," because he doesn't know the value of love. Coppy Latimer, the young billionaire who occasionally tips too many scotch and whisky glasses at the celling, knows all about love, and where Stone refuses to give a dime to a beggar, Latimer hands out $15 and laments that he hasn't more. Where Stone refuses to risk his life to save a vagrant, Latimer rushes in and gives his friends a chance to do a little hero-worshiping.

The book shows a conspiracy between Latimer and the author to oust Stone from the good graces of Linda Grey, and also to make Stone rather unpopular with the reader by allowing him to dogmatize with exceeding frequency and at some length upon the wherefores and the whys of economics and reform.

In our opinion the author does not give Stone a "square deal," and as for Coppy Latimer, he is a flippant, insipid young chap who turns to "upilit" work to please Stone's fancee and wins her.

This is, indeed, a fascinating book. Mr. Dixon can scarcely be taken literally, but he may be taken easerly. He tells charming stories, and we hesitate to doubt his word, but out of the depths of our botanical ignorance we cannot believe plants need only vocal organs to be human. However, any lover of flowers will surely prize and enjoy this remarkable presentation of the human side of our flowers and trees—and weeds! and weeds!

"THE GOLDEN STATE."

CALIFORNIA: An Intimate Ristory. By Gertrud Atherton, Harper & Broa, New York. M RS. ATHERTON'S history of California is interesting, very interesting.
But of its accuracy a careful and calm reader already somewhat equipped with cold facts and an understanding of many viewpoints will be rather skeptical. As would be expected, she features the dramatic, and with vigorous enthusiasm presents graphic descriptions of the more spectacular aspects of this State which has had a truly dramatic and spectacular history.

It is not, strictly speaking, a history, but rather a historical sketch from the Padre days to the present, with expansive chapters on the vigilantes, the dueling and disreputable politicians of the early days, and an impassioned, Sunday-supplement-story on the proper present present in the contraction. on the more recent graft prosecutions.

"YOSEMITE AND ITS HIGH SIERRA."
John H. Williams of Tacoma discovered a few years ago that the scenery of the Pacific Coast looked well in print. "The Mountain that was God," and "The Guardians of the Columbia" were among the first efforts made outside of a railroad folder to give a suitable pictorial volume of nature's wonders on this coast. In "Yosemite and Its High Sierra," Mr. Williams has devoted special attention to the mountains behind Yosemite, which is well known and generally visited, while the magnificent mountains in the background are little know. This volume icludes eight color plates from paintings by Chris Jorgensen, and more than two hundred illustrations.

CALIFORNIA'S ADVANTAGES.

CALIFORNIA'S ADVANTAGES.

California, according to Forrest Crissey, is "Where Opportunity Knocks Twice" (Reilij & Britton Company.) And he shows something of the agricultural miracles that have been wrought by the intensive farming in which foreigners have given instructions. He says: "While Californians are entitled to hold their own opinion of alien races, there can be no question that they own a distinct debt to dark invaders for demonstrating—as they themselves have not demonstrated—the productive possibilities of their soil and climate. It has remained for the alien to answer the question: How much will an acre of California land produce?—and to answer it in the superlative." Mr. Forrest reviews, and names specific localities, of the work being done by Japanese, Chinese, Italians and Portuguese.

THE POETICAL VAGABOND.

In "Adventures While Preaching the Gospel of Beauty," Nicholas Vachel Lindsay (Mitchell Kennerley) relates experiences met with while rambling through Illinols, Missouri, Kansas and Colorado. He exchanged rhymes for bread, lectured before women's clubs and elsewhere when the opportunity offered, read poems to celebrate each new acquaintance, chatted with vagabonds less esthetic than himself, and speut the nights wherever chance placed him. Many poems are included in the book.

PUBLISHERS AND AUTHORS.

"The Honest House," published by the Century Company, discusses the quest of the ideal house, the value of the architect, American houses and their European prototypes, the practical problem of house building, the vexatious matters of proportion and balance, the useful and the beautiful, the entourage of the country house, concerning colors, the materials, walls and their openings, the consideration of the roof, details of small house design, the column and its cornice, the pleasure of porches, the plan arrangement, good taste and common sense, the shell of the house, a plea for the hearth, details of interior design, the tradition of wood paneling, the decoration of the walls, the right use of curtains, etc., etc.

Gossip, that fascinating small change of social intercourse, makes up the main part of all volumes list, "The Book Fancter" (J. B. Lippincott Company,) but it is gossocial intercourse, makes up the main part of all volumes list, "The Book Fancier" (J. B. Lippincott Company,) but it is gossip that is always distinctly well worth while, the pleasant record of adventures wherein Elzevirs and Claxon, First Folios and quartos, are the main characters. Percy Fitzgerald has treated the engaging topics of old editions, luxurious, historical bindings and auction-room doings in a manner that is most pleasing. You are taken away from the muddle and fret of mundane affairs and are lulled in dreamy reveries of musty duodecimoes. The romance of book-collecting is well attested by the scores of volumes given over to the charm of hunting for the printed treasures and guarding them with sacred, jealous pride. The history and pedigree of books and printers has always been a favorite study with the learned—such as the Panzers, Hains, de Burs and Bruners—but the subject has its popular graves also. There is a sort of romantic interest with all that is associated with books—the rare old edition, the old printer, the blear-eyed collector, the binder, the sales and the stray survivors of old editions, by some miracle preserved to our time. What an imaginative charm there is to those great illuminated editions of the early fifteenth century printers. How strange it is that since that day we have never been able even to pretend to equal the massive tomes of old Gutenberg. The making of those great and lasting volumes was indeed a complete and protected work of art. protected work of art.

Percival J. Cooney, author of "Dons of the Old Pueblo" (Rand. McNally & Co.,) is an untiring student of the military opera-tions of the Civil War. Recently several veterans of the great conflict were discuss-ing the battle of Wilson's Creek in one of the parks in Los Angeles. A gray-haired man was holding forth. "The First Kansas was in the woods on our right—" "No," spoke up the author, who had been a silent man was holding forth. "The First Kansas was in the woods on our right—" "No," spoke up the author, who had been a silent listener. "it was the Second Missouri." The old fellow maintained his ground and scoffed at the stranger's knowledge. "Bet you the cigars," challenged Mr. Cooney. The offer was accepted and a visit to the records in the Public Library showed that the old soldier's memory was defective. "Now, what do you think of that," grumbled the old man. "Here's a young cuss that wasn't born when Sumter was fired on, knows more about the war than us fellows who were in it."

By a strange coincidence Frederick A. Stokes Company concluded arrangements to publish the authoritative biography of Lord Roberts while the famous British soldier lay breathing his last in France. "The Life of Lord Roberts, K.G., V.C.," which will appear immediately, was written by

The carillon is also played by a bell-master, or carillonneur, using a clavier or keyboard resembling that of a plano or organ. Thus played a carillon may be thought of as a gigantic planoforte or organ.

The author describes the bells and towers at length, names the principal towers, the weight of the bells, the arrangement and tones, and something of the history of both the bells and the towers. He offers, in fact, a large amount of information about a little known subject.

Enos A. Mills of Colorado, author of "Weld Life on the Rockies," "The Spell of the Rockies," "In Beaver World" and a forthcoming volume entitled "The Rocky Mountain Wonderland," is in the East for the purpose of advancing the interests of the proposed Rocky Mountain National Park. The bill providing for this new park has passed the Senate and is now in the House Committee on Public Lands. Mr. Mills, who is chairman of the National Park Committee of the American Civic Association, has for some time been conducting a campaign in favor of the establishment of a bureau of national parks to look after the interests of these play-grounds of the people, which are now left very largely to take care of themselves. Canada, with its well-organized park department, leads the United States in this respect.

The Putnams announce for immediate publication a volume by the well-known historian, the Abbe Ernest Dimnet, entitled "France Herself Again." The purpose and general character of the book will be indicated by the division of the chapter titles as follows: Introductory, The Object of the Book. Part 1. The Deterioration of France: 1, Under the Second Empire; 2, Under the French Republic. Part II. The Return of the Light; 1, Immediate Consequences of the Tangiers Incident; 2, Intellectual Interpretation of the New Spirit: 1, The Political Problems of the Future; Part IV. France and the War of 1914.

When Irvin Cobb was questioned regarding his literary methods the other day in New York, he made the following admis-

"I plug away at the machine about four hours a day. If I turn out 2500 words in that time I feel good about it. I can't dash off stuff. I guess the guys who talk about dashing off a masterplece don't dash more than an inch at a time.

"Newspaper training is good in one way—it brings experience to a fiction writer better and quicker than any other occupation. It's bad in another way, for it tends to too much speed in writing and too much carelessness of the finer points.

"I was once a 5000-word man. I could write 5000 words about a cat fight, but I couldn't write more than 5000 words about the combined tragedies of all the various worlds. No subject nor plot could wring more than 5000 words out of me. Then it happened that dire circumstances forced me to write a page story about the development of a mining camp in Kentucky. It had to be 19,000 words long—just had to be. So I wrote 10,000 words, and now I could write 10,000 words about eating a bag of peanuts—but I won't."

Henry Holt & Co. expect to inaugurate their publishing season for 1915 early in February with three and possibly five drams books. Those already chosen ares "Possession," the fourth book of plays by George Middleton, whose "Embers," "Tradition" and "Nowadays" are each already in a second edition. It might not be too much to say that Mr. Middleton's position as the leading American writer of one-act plays is already established. A highly practical and long-needed book on "How to Produce Plays for Children," by Miss Constance D'Arcy, Mackay, whose "House of the Heart and Silver Thread," being short plays, are already in their sixth and third printing. "Short Plays About Famous Authors," by Maude M. Frank, who, in this volume makes her debut as an author. She is a teacher of experience and in these little plays has given pretty human glimpses of Goldsmith, Heine, Dickens, Fannle Burney and Shakespeare.

George H. Doran Company is announcing the publication of the following important new books on the great war: "Britain as Germany's Vassal," the latest book by Gen. von Bernhardi, written a year after "Germany and the Next "War:" "Yatheriand." an American's view of the war, a passionate articulation of the cause of the dumb peasants; "rance and the Next War," an elaboration of the present French theory of war and tactica—very different in many particulars from the German theory so ably stated by Bernhardi in "How Germany Makes War"—written by Commandant J. Colin of the French War School.

Uniform with "The Russian Army from Within" and "The German Army from Within," are two books, "The British Navy from Within," and "The German Spv System from Within," both by authorities. In the Doran Pocket Book Series, a library of cloth-bound volumes issued at 50 cents each, earlier volumes of which have been the popular "Hacking Through Belgium," "In the Firing Line" and "A Scrap of Paper," there are the following new books, "Submarines in War," "Motor Transports in War," and "The Slav Nations."

Authors are frequently requested to autograph copies of their works, but it is questionable whether another writer has questionable whether another writer has written his name so many times at one sitting as did Howard Sutherland, the author of "The Promise of Life" (Rand, McNally & Co.) Through the medium of a Denverbook seller no less than fifty books were lately sent to Mr. Sutherland to autograph for one appreciative customer. This suggests a steady demand for literature other than "best sellers."

what I like about the "Poor Little Rich Giri" is that it does not make dreams so vague as many people take them to be. A dream is a wonderful experience, because it is a gloftous truth of what life is in its easence. The joy of the dream is that it is independent of everything on which existence appears to depend when we are awake. We cannot move an inch when we are awake without space. We have to have a place to leave and a place to be in all the time, and there must be space all around us before we can see anything or before we can see an

GERMAN FOOD SUPPLY WILL LAST FOR YEARS.

B ERLIN, Dec. 31 (by wireless to Sayville, L. I.)—Among the items given out for publication today by the official press bureau was the following:

"The North German Gazette says the allegation contained in the Morning Post (a London newspaper) that it was intended to make Emperor William's son, Prince Eitel Friedrich, King of Hungary, is an untruth.

"Christiania reports that the American note of protest against British oppression to neutral trade has made a deep impression and has met with general approval in the northern countries.

"The War correspondent of the Dutch newspaper Tijd at Belgian to the adquarters says the allies suffered enormous losses near Tyres; that they lost ground and that they were forced to make new dispositions of their troops.

"Stockholm says that diplomatic circles in Petrograd are convinced that the note of the Scandinavian powers will demand unrestrained importation of all commodifies destined for home consumption.

"The Socialist members of the Russian Duma who have been arrested are charged with high treason."

King of Hungary, is an untruth.

"Christiania reports that the American note of protest against British oppression to neutral trade has made a deep impression and has met with general approval in the northern countries.

"Herr Lehmann, chairman of the Bremen Chamber of Commerce, stated at a meeting of the Bremen merchants that Germany was provided with victuals sufficient for years. The high standard of German science, he said, rendered it possible to supply substitutes for the raw materials necessary for warfare which cannot be imported and that, therefore, the shutting off of German imports by the British is damaging only the interests of neutrals.

Queer Christmas Trees.

[Twin Falls (Idaho) Dispatch;]
Twin Falls is to have its second municipal Christmas tree this year. The first was eleven years ago, when, on the first Christmas on the tract, then nothing but a sagebush plain, the residents secured the largest brush they could find, about six feet high, and placed it in the biggest building
they had, a kind of shed.

Being far from any mountains, where real Christmas trees can be found, Twin Falls will have a madeto-order tree. The top will be a real tree perched on a telegraph pole.
Smaller trees, shipped in, will be stripped and the firemen will make a tree from these boughs, using the telegraph pole as a foundation.

modations at any of them, and I visited friends. It seems to be the general impression among Americans who are in the country and who have been there for years, that the end of the trouble down there is in sight. I talked with a number of wealthy and influential men in Mexico, who told me that they were pinning their faith in Villa, believing that he is the one man capable of bringing order out of the unfortunate conditions which have existed there. The country, itself, is, of course, poorer than it has been for years, as thousands of cattle have been shipped out of the country, and less land is now under cultivation than was formerly the rule. But, we know the country and are very hopeful and we firmly believe that in the very near future condiare very hopeful and we firmly believe that in the very near future conditions in Mexico are going to change for the better and change very rapidly. It will help us and help all concerned if the newspapers will endeavor to suppress the liars and fakers, who take a look across the border at Nogales or El Paso or Tia Juana or some other protected spot and then return to the "haunts of civilization" with weird tales of their hair-breadth escapes. Americans need have no hair-breadth escapes in Mexico. The best thing for an American to do in Mexico is to go unarmed, mind his own business, keep his nose out of politics and he will have no trouble.

THE ORDEAL OF SILENCE

Pictures by Sidney M. Chase

Poe, Doyle or Gaboriau never spun a more amazing yarn of mystery than Edwin Balmer does in this It concerns two brothers, both prominent. One is suddenly and strangely murdered. The other persuades the authorities to take no action in the case for a period of three days. Under this ordeal of silence the murderer is shown as under a magnifying glass. The end comes like a thunder-

CALL IN THE MIND DOCTOR

Automatic Remedies That Cost Nothing By Henry R. Rose, D.D.

Starting in on 1915, now's the time to turn over that new leaf—and whether it be to renounce alcohol, to overcome fear, worry, insomnia or any vice, this article is better than a book full of ordinary ex-pensive prescriptions. Dr. Rose has one of the largest congregations in the country and serves no ma-terial interest in urging and demonstrating the dor-mant curative power of the automatic mind.

AMERICA AND THE TRANS-ATLANTIC WAR

By Champ Clark, Speaker of the House of Representatives

Speaker Clark gives four reasons why the United States, as an innocent bystander who has been a bit shot up by stray shrapnel from the war, should permanently profit in the long run. He also maintains that "were the republic imperiled, its foreign-born citizens would be found among its stanchest defender."

SHALL SHE NOT HAVE A PLACE IN THE SUN?

Editorial By Mrs. H. H. A. Beach

The leading woman composer of America, in a vigorous reply to what Walter Damrosch wrote about women and music in the last number of THE NATIONAL SUNDAY MAGAZINE, valiantly champions her sex and breaks a few lances with the New York Symphony Orchestra conductor.

"THEM WIMMIN!"

Cover Design By Lealie Thrasher

Speaking of women and their struggle for enfranchisement, Thrasher has made a picture that tells a tragic or a comic story, according to your way of thinking. Anyway, it's a big, bully story told in a picture that is splendidly reproduced in colors.

DULL FORCES ARE ACTIVE.

URGENT DEMAND FOR WHEAT

United States During January and Pebruary are Expected on Huge Scale and Size of Argentine Sur-

CHICAGO, Jan. 2.—Urgent demand rom exporters and millers gained from he opening an upward turn in the heat quotations. Corn finished % @ % o % up, oats with a gain of half cent nd provisions varying from 2½ off to rise of 7½. Big houses led the bull a rise of 7½. Big houses led the bull forces in wheat and there was at no time any important setback, despite much profit-taking by longs. The most popular opinion was that clearances or Europe from the United States during January and February would continue on a hure scale, and that the size of the Argentine surplus was immaterial Export bids on corn were higher and there were predictions of receipts becoming light. A large foreign order seemed to take all of the surplus offerings in oats. Commission firms, though did a fair amount of selling.

This is Your New Year Opportunity

There is many a man who realizes he has the possibilities of making a greater success of his life than he is doing at the present time, but how to secure the chance to demonstrate that latent ability is the problem.

I am going to tell you briefly of four men (though I could name others) who have attained success with me during the past year. I can show you two men today who are sales managers in charge of two important real estate offices in this city. I can show you another agent of mine who never sold real estate in his life before, who has been with me a little over four months, who has accumulated in that time about $4000.00. He has made a substantial payment upon a home of his own, and owns an automobile. The fourth man likewise is worth several thousand dollars more than he was six months ago, has married and has also bought a home of his own within that time.

Many a man is just like a ship without a helm. I am the helm, and if you have a little better than average appearance, personality and ability, and can appreciate the full value of sticking strictly to the truth at all times, I want to steer you on the road where other men are making from $5000 to $10,-000 a year. This is a vital question for you to settle with yourself NOW. I want real men with red blood who believe in themselves. To such men, who will do just as they are told, I can assure success. See me any morning after 9 o'clock. Room 323 Investment Bldg.

DEGIONAL BANK SYSTEM, IS IT TO BE BOYCOTTED?

Thorough Exposition of the Subject from Many Financial Centers.

Scope of the Act Creating These Banks, Views of Bankers, Administration Men, East, Middle West and Far West-What the Local Financiers Think Upon the Subject.

the Subject.

THE United States is now engaged in the fourth experimental attempt of the government to enter directly or indirectly into the bank ing business of the nation.

At the time of the Revolution there was scarcely a bank in all the colonies in operation. Soon after the declaration of peace and the establishment of the government, in 1791, the Bank of the United States was chartered for thirty years in order to relieve the trouble growing out of the lack of banking facilities. This institution was operated with fair success until 1813, when Congress refused to jenew its charter.

Things financially went badly, and in 1817 the government again attempted to perform the banking functions of the country and granted a new charter to the defunct Bank of the United States. The government subscribed to one-fifth of the entire capital stock, and reserved a powerful representation on the directorate of the listitution, controlling its internal affairs. Following this, branch below were quickly established in various states, spread like wild-cat concerns and the period. The then President, Andrew Jackson, stways on the side of the largest number of voters, killed this institutions organized under the listitutions organized under the listitutions organized under the listitutions organized under the list of the banks, institutions organized under the list of the control of the contr was added that there was no great demand for loans. A large bond-deal-ing firm in San Francisco was quoting prime paper at 4½ per cent. seem to account for the non-operation of the Federal reserve bank, whose rate of discount was 5 per cent. Let it be restated that this difficulty has been removed by the lowering of the rediscount rate to 4½ per cent. on the part of the Federal reserve bank.

A still later report from San Francisco says bankers at that center are considering whether it is not just as well at the present time to write of their prospective dividends for 1915 on their stock in the Federal reserve bank. This thought of putting the dividend expected in the profit-and-loss column results from a scanning of the operations of the Federal reserve bank to date. Two per cent interest on the deposits amounting to $13,536,000, would amount to $268,720, added to which $50,000 for operating supenses, gives a total of $318,720, to be earned by the Federal regional bank. Over against this is placed interest on the loans to date only $39,-350, leaving a net loss of $379,370. The capital stock of the bank amounting to $1,26,000, which the subscribing banks are compelled to pay under the law, would raise the gross loss to the bank to 21.5 per cent., and on this basis the capital would be absorbed in less than five years.

This is not reassuring, and worse is to come. The report runs: "Already sectional policies, which many bankers predicted, are beginning to be felt. Every district is pressing for lower rates, regardless of the money market in the district. Meanwhile Washington fears to grant the requests of one district lest unjust demands be created in other districts."

A careful investigation covering all the important banks in the local field made by The Times fails to reveal any hostility on the part of the bankers toward the Federal bank system under which we are now acting. There is a difference of opinion frankly stated as to the deriment growing out of the single bank. There is the same divergence of opinion as to the number of regional bank. If here is the same divergence of opinion stank proversional bank. If would be very difficult to

Lemon or Orange Groves, Farm and Suburban Homes

For the family man looking for a place that will supply his nearest and dearest ones with home, income, health, comfort and pleasure, Citronia Acres is the answer.

5, 10, 20 and 40 Acre Tracts, $450 an Acre—Now!

Planted to lemons or oranges, this land will be worth $1500 to $3000 an acre.

Five acres and-Freedom. Forty acres and-Fortune, at Citronia Acres.

Adaptability

The soil is adapted for the raising of all kinds of citrus and deciduous fruits, berries, nuts, olives, grapes or vegetables and alfalfa, and it is fine for sugar beets, in fact for everything grown in the semi-tropical and temperate zones. The soil is fertile, loamy and deep, reaching to forty feet below the surface so that all plant growth here is rapid and prolific.

There is not a particle of adobe land in Citronia Acres. Its present owners selected it years ago as the choicest piece of land in San Fernando Valley and soil experts have pronounced it to be the cream of all the land in this section.

Although almost every branch of horticulture, agriculture, appliculture and floriculture may be profitably followed at Citronia Acres, the returns from raising Lemons, Oranges and Grape Fruit are so much greater than from other crops and the land is so perfectly adapted for these fruits that it is the course of wisdom

Vegetables, garden truck, melons and small fruits may be successfully grown between the trees until they come into bearing. Poultry—chickens, turkeys, ducks and pheasants may be raised

Accessibility

Go to the open, generous, sunshiny country-side and still be in direct touch with life's vibrant industries and amusements! The immediate nearness of Citronia Acres to Los Angeles—the motropolis of Southern California—as also to scores of smaller towns all linked with splendid boulevards, steam and electric roads, means that its residents will have financial, educational and social advantages not obtainable elsewhere.

A six thousand-five-hundred dollar public school, a church and a postoffice are close to the tract. Sherman Way, one of the magnificent boulevards of California, parked with roses and shrubs, electrically lighted at night, and the county Good Roads boulevard make the avenues to Citronia Acres a fitting approach to any home.

The Southern Pacific Railroad station is a few hundred feet from the tract and the Pacific Electric cars are but a short dis-tance away, insuring good service by rail; or, a person can reach Los Angeles business center in about forty-five minutes by automobile over pieturesque driveways.

Your future home should be at Citronia Acres. Buy now be-fore it is too late. A payment down will hold five or more acres for you. Correspondence from those at a distance invited. For further information, write or call on [Oil City Derrick:] It was stated at a recent board meeting that the business of the German Crude Oil Company had not yet been affected by the war, according to the Vossische Zeitung. "Call to Arms" to fight the State militia.

This is civil war and insurrection, when men decide upon their own rights and go to war for them. If either side to industrial disputes assumes the right to arbitrate by arms, what has become of our civil government?

Then there is peaceful tyranny. The annihilation of industrial liberty in many communities and industries through a monopoly of organized labor, enforced by the boycott, often makes union membership a prerequisite to the exercise of the ordinary rights of citizenship. Yet we theoretically recognize the right of a nonunion man to pursue his trade.

To maintain and extend this labor monopoly, an organization has been formed to drive the non-union man from industry and open-shop products from commerce. The Times and Sunset Magazine

To advertise California and its two great Expositions, at San Francisco and San Diego, The Times will allow any subscriber, old or new, to mail Sunset Magazine for six months to any address in the East for 25 cents, an amount only sufficient to pay the postage.

This is an unusual opportunity for the public-spirited citizen of Southern California and the Southwest to do some very effective advertising.

The Times is recognized as a leading power in the work of exploiting reliably and potently the agricultural, horticultural. mining and commercial and other resources and other possibilities of this, the most promising land between the two seas. Both day and night reports of the Associated Press, special correspondents of its own at the centers of population of America and Europe, and a large force of eminent writers enable The Times to regularly give its readers a larger variety of interesting pen work and greater value for less money than any other newspaper extant.

Sunset Magazine will contain regularly each month a vast amount of highly interesting and instructive information on California and the Expositions; information compiled by noted writers who are interested heart and soul in the welfare of California, and who will put forth their best efforts to make Sunset Magazine productive of splendid results in getting people who live in less favored climes interested in our great State.

becribe for the LOS ANGELES TIMES and Sunset Magaonths and will pay on demand the sum of 25 cents in addition in price of THE TIMES, which is to pay the postage charged i promise to notify THE TIMES at once should I change my (New or Old) Address

HIGHLAND, Jan. 2.—A small colony of homes that is to become the summer residence of a number of wealthy Los Angeles residents is springing up in Lytle Creek Canyon just above Glen Ranch. Four of these homes are nearing completion and are artistic mountain cottages, more substantial than the average.

It is understood that the cost of each of the bungalows will be in the neighborhood of $2500. They are being built by T. A. Simpson of the Title Insurance and Trust Company, Harry Fryman, manager of the Hayward Hotel: Charles Jenkins of the City Dye Works and Mrs. J. Steinhaur of Hollywood. It is understood that several more places are to be started in the near future.

A Happy New Year

And your New Year can be made most happy by fulfilling some of the resolves that you have made for the year 1915. Will you not be much happier at the end of this present year, if you have saved more money in a good investment than you did in the year 1914? Will you not be much happier at the end of the year 1915 if you have made one year's payments upon a home of your own, instead of having simply thrown away another year's rent.

Upon January 1st, lots in New College Tract and Rodgers Park were raised in price an average of $50 per lot. And these lots are still selling from $200 to $300 below surrounding values. And we expect shortly to further raise the present prices.

This is your opportunity to save a little money each month, where reasonably, I believe, you should within the next five years double your money.

Now a word to you who rent a house instead of owning a home of your own. We want to take you to Rodgers Park, and New College Tract, and show you where you can buy a home of your own and practically pay for it with your rent money. Is owning a home of your own one of your New Year's Resolutions? If it is, let us help you make your resolve come true. We invite you to come on our New Year's excursion, leaving from the Investment Building, 8th and Broadway next Sunday, January 10th, to Rodgers Park at 11 a.m., and to New College Tract at 1:30 p.m. You will have an enjoyable ride, a splendid lunch and a good time—and it will not cost you a cent. And it may be the means of giving you that definite start toward saving that you have always desired, or an opportunity to gratify your greatest wish—a home of your own.

When Raiph Glaze chose the L.A.

If he expected, the Trojans to win their first game, he made a grave mistake or an exceedingly wise move. If he expected, the Trojans to win their first game, he made a gravious error. If he wanted them to get some fielding practice, his selection was all-knowness.

The clubmen pasted the ball to all corners of the lot. They rounded the bars fifteen times. U.S.C. made one frun. That was made when it was so dark the clubmen could not see the ball. PENALTY OF

LEADERSHIP

IN every field of human endeavor, he that is first must perpetually Live in the white light of publicity. TWhether the leadership be vested in a man or in a manufactured product, emulation and envy are ever at work. In art, in literature, in music, in industry, the reward and the punishment are always the same. The reward is widespread recognition; the punishment, fierce denial and detraction. TWhen a man's work becomes a standard for the whole world, it also becomes a target for the shafts of the envious few. IIf his work be merely mediocre, he will be left severely alone—if he achieve a masterpiece, it will set a million tongues a-wagging. TJealousy does not protrude its forked tongue at the artist who produces a commonplace painting.

TWhatsoever you write, or paint, or play, or sing, or build, no one will strive to surpass or to slander you, unless your work be stamped with the seal of genius. ILong, long, after a great work, or a good work has been done, those who are disappointed or envious, continue to cry out that it can not be done. TSpiteful little voices in the domain of art were raised against our own Whistler as a mountebank, long after the big world had acclaimed him its greatest artistic genius. TMultitudes flocked to Bayreuth to worship at the musical shrine of Wagner, while the little group of those whom he had dethroned and displaced, argued angrily that he was no musician at all. The little world continued to protest that Fulton could never build a steamboat, while the big world flocked to the river banks to see his boat steam by. The leader is assailed because he is a leader, and the effort to equal him is merely added proof of that leadership. TFailing to equal or to excel, the follower seeks to depreciate and to destroy-but only confirms once more the superiority of that which he strives to supplant. There is nothing new in this. IIt is as old as the world and as old as the human passions-envy, fear, greed, ambition, and the desire to surpass. "And it all avails nothing. "If the leader truly leads, he remains -the leader. Master-poet, master-painter, master-workman, each in his turn is assailed, and each holds his laurels through the ages. That which is good or great makes itself known, no matter how loud the clamor of denial. That which deserves to live-lives.

Sleet and Snow in Mountains on Run from Texas.

Difficult Going Not Helped by Washouts.

Resembling a motor car only in general appearance, but having no visible features that distinguish its make, a 1912 National touring car arrived in Los Angeles Tuesday with a party of four Texans, who probably will be the last to make the run over-land through Arizona this winter.

B. L. Hayward, C. N. Thompson, B. K. Barrett and W. L. Durant made up

K. Barrett and W. L. Durant made up the party. They are all citizens of Houston, Tex. They came to Southern California for a month's outing, but, as it took them almost three weeks to get out here, they probably will remain longer.

Mud encrusted the car. One fender was bent, a hub cap knocked entirely off, a leaf in a rear spring cracked across, and a puncture in the radiator, but the motor hummed away.

According to the stories told by the party, it is doubtful if there will be another car over the National Old Roads Trail between Needles and Phoenix for many weeks. Twice they were on the verge of abandoning the car and setting out afoot for the nearest habitation, they said, but each time, after the carburetor had been dissected and the hunks of adobe removed, they were able to proceed.

It required eleven days to make the Phoenix-San Bernardino passage, Hayward said. During that time they encountered all kinds of weather but that conducive to pleasurable travel. Between Phoenix and Prescott, up the long grade they fought a slow but stated Hayward. "Of course, I don't say it is absolutely impossible, but I feel pretty safe in making it that strong. All the streams have been raging torrents, out of their banks and running with such great speed as to carry away nearly all the culverts. In a number of places where new, small concrete spans had been put in last summer the floods could not move the concrete but washed out a new channel and sought a new course. To make repairs it will be necessary to build an additional span or put in long earth approaches.

"We had sleet around Prescott and coming into San Bernardino we ran into the snow. It did not offer us much trouble, however, except for the cold. Naturally, it was slow going, and we had to pick our way through the mountain passes, but we took it easy and had no misfortune."

SEXTEEN STATES,

From Vancouver, B. C., to Greensboro, N. C., was the ambittous tour which Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Snipes recently completed in their Studebaker car. They saw Grand Canyon, Mammoth Cave and many other points of interest, passing through sixteen States, without an accident of any sort.

O. G. Temme has built up the largest automobile spring repair business in the world. The Triple Action Spring Company, of which Temme is proprietor, has no rival of consequence anywhere.

When Temme started his little automobile spring repair business he employed only two men and did an industrious day's work himself. He was a specialist and business came to him so rapidly that soon he moved to larger quarters. About a year ago he built a modern plant, and with the completion of a new addition, which has just been built, his business now occupies a floor space of 130x135 feet, devoted exclusively to the repair of automobile springs and the installation of Johnson shock absorbers.

ANNUAL BOWLING CONGRESS.

The American Bowling Congress
1915 international bowling tournament will be held in Peoria, Ill., March 10 to 30. Six hundred fivemen teams, 1500 two-men teams and 3000 individuals are expected to compete in the different events, which means that the prize money to be distributed will amount to $50,000. The average attendance at the annual tournament is 5000 daily. In other words, 100,000 spectators will witness the contests, and 7500 bowlers will compete.

You had your own reasons for selecting a COLE. You staked your judgment on it. You may not have realized that you did some advanced thinking, anticipating a tendency in automobile buy-ing more plainly marked every day.

It is always gratifying to have one's opinions justified by events. And it may interest you to know that the COLE has had the greatest year in its history. Our sales show locally one hun-

People are beginning to figure out the real cost of a car—to figure a little further than the initial price—to ask what a car will do and, above all, to know what it will cost to do it.

The COLE recently won the WORLD'S REC-ORD for economy. This record was made under the strict supervision of the American Automo-bile Association and is official.

The tendency is all toward a thoroughly stand-COLE because among fine cars the Cole is the exponent of scientific standardization.

As a Cole owner you probably think first of the comfort of your car, its easy riding luxury, easy handling and freedom from trouble. Its economy you accept as a matter of course. You paid a little more at the start—the cost of operation is less. That is as it should be.

And now we want to wish you a Happy and Most Prosperous New Year.

The Raton nine was to play the Santa Fe men. Leverenz drove the Velle out to the ball park, which was packed with fans ready for the game For the first three innings a black cloud hung over the home team and the fans from Raton were serious. Their pitcher was in the air and the visitors had found him for two-baggers and a number of singles, netting them five runs. Leverenz determined to help out the Raton club.

Leaving his seat in the Velle, which he had parked on the sidelines, he found the manager of the Raton team.

It was really a shame the way the Whitter boys took the local lads down the line in the first half, at the end of which the score slood 23 to 2. In the second period cither the visitors were conscience stricken or the local boys bucked up some, for both teams made 19 points.

Benten, for the Whittierites, was the scored seven of these baskets. Humphries was the best Long Beach basket-thrower, making four fouls and three field goals.

Whittier has been sitting on the county basketball champlonship for six years, and it will take a much stronger team than Long Beach to push the boys from the groves off the soft seat.

The first surprise of the day came when Houston Peterson compelled Eugene Warren to blay three sets to take his match. Warren won by the score of 6-2, 2-5, 6-4. Warren took the first set, but in a fissh of form Peterson defeated the U.S.C. man in the second. Barber fought hard in a vain endeavor to keep from losing the first set to Barker. He seemed considerably spent in the second set, which Barker copped handly, 6-1, Harker made some wonderful placement shots, and seemed to have the old L.A. star guessing the greater part of the match.

In the finals in the men's doubles of the tournament, Warren and Barber defeated Barker and Goodwin easily, 6-2, 6-2.

Then followed the exhibition doubles between Warren and Barber defeated Barker and Goodwin easily, 6-3, 6-2.

Then followed the exhibition doubles between Warren and Barber versus Browne and Hornidge, which ended in a draw for the match.

OMMON SENSE in the HOME EDITED by MARION FLARLAND

CONCERNING SLOW COOKERY.

All a new houseneeper and I come to peut for a little helpful information. All I know about cookery these picked up for myself with the aid of recipe books and certain things pusses me very much.

"Let me tell you a recent experience and you will see what my trouble in. The other day I bought a piece of beef for boiling. The butcher told me it would make good soup and that it shull be used with gravy for a meat dish. I put it on the stove in cold water with salt and, as it weighed six pounds and the cook book said beef should cook fifteen minutes to the pound, I boiled it for an hour and a half. I kept the water at a good, steady boil all the time, too.

Then I took out the meat and made gravy with a cup of the stock it had been cooked in. The beef looked nice, but it iddn't inste good. There was no resitante to it, sithough I had put an onion and colory in the pot with it. Part of the beef was stringy, and all of it was tough.

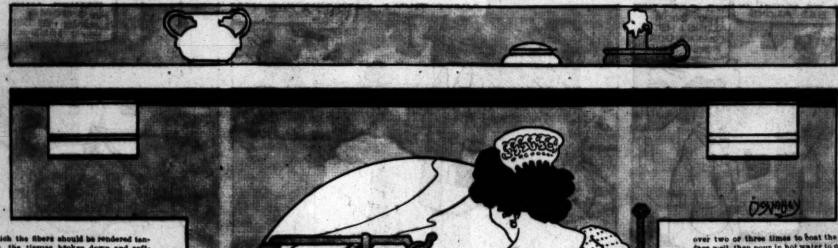

"What was the matter? I can't afford to buy first outs of meat, but I have been told even the chasp cuts can be cooked so they will be good. In this true or is it one of the fairy tales with which young housekeepers are so often deluded?

"Durransanp."

It is not a fairy tale. Cheap meat can be cooked so that it will be good and many of the less appensive cuts really contain more nutriment than those for which a high figure is, paid. But you must make up your mind to one thing at the beginning. For good results you must pay in one way or another. If you have plenty of money you can purchase the best ribe of beef, porter-house, and sirioin steaks, and corresponding messas of other kinds. When you have no money you must pay for good food by the time and work you put into preparing it for the table.

To begin with, albumen is an essential component of beef. This, like the albumen in white of egr. coagulates at a comparatively low temperature—that is, at something below boiling point. Drop the white of egr into water that is actually boiling and you will see the egr whiten and form at eges. If left in the water and kept boiling for a few minutes the albumen will become so hard as to be insoluble. It would grow firm is water a good deal below boiling.

water at a hard boil the albumen on rinco forms a coating over the meat, sing the juices, just as it does if a lag piece is put into a hot oven or if ag water is poured over it in the pan, a process serves well for comparatement of the panel of heat to make it ready for the But when you have tough meat in which the fibers should be rendered ten-der, the tissues broken down and soft-ened, gentler measures are needed. With hard beiling you may cook such a piece of meat into stringy shreds; you cannot make it tender and toothsome. For this a more delicate course is required.

You were right when you put your meat on in cold water. This does not harden the surface of the meat, and as the water warms gradually it coarse out the pulces into the water. Sait should not go into the water at the first, as this also has a congulating effect upon the blood of the meat. But if you wish to get the sert out of the meat and make a good strong soup stock you must continue your slow cookery. The "galloping boil," so called, will not do this. The process you wish is a gentle simmer,

I have been astonished to observe how few cooks seem to know what a "simmer" reality is. Some of them have thought it meant a steady boil, even although not a hard one. It is nothing of the sort. A simmer is only a slight bubbling at the edge of the pot, not a boil which extends all over the surface. When it reaches this stage the simmer has departed and the meat is enduring a treatment which may convert it from rawness into a cooked product, but will assuredly not render it tender or draw the julces from it out into the soup stock.

When you bail heef or any other meat from it out into the soup stock.

When you bell heef or any other meat for soup you must bear in mind that the process which makes the soup strong takes away the food value from the meat. Much of it will be left in the way of fiber and there is some nutriment even in this, but the true life of the meat goes when the juices are drawn from it. For that reason the French, who are the wisest cooks in the world, always sorve gravy or stock with their "bouild," as they call the beef which has been cooked to make boutilon or consommé. You recognized the necessity of this when you made a cup of gravy to eat with your boiled beef

New let me tell you how to boil your best the next time. If you wish to make soup stock put the meat over the fire in enough cold water to cover it with what is known as a bunch of soup herbs and which means a stalk of celery, a spray of parsley, a bay yat, half a turnip and as much carrot, and a sliced onton; bring to the simmer gradually and keep it at this for an hour and a half, depending upon the size of the beef. A piece that weight six pounds will require about two hours. At the end of the time you can either take it out and serve it hot with a gravy made from a cup of the stock or you can let Now let me tell you how to boil your over two or three times to boat the sur-face well, then pour in hot water to cover it, add the vegetables, and simmer as before at the rate of fifteen minutes to the pound. You will then have a savory plene of meat, and the stock from it, while not so rich as that made by the other method, will serve as a foundation for a variety of excellent soups.

I wish I could make all housekeepers understand the value that abides in slow cookery. The ignorant kitchen worker seems to think that tough meat shall be awed by its much boiling. Only the other day a new maid in my kitchen could not understand why the stewed chicken I had ordered should be so tough that it was practically uneatable.

"I told you to cook it four house."

Boup can never be made properly by rapid boiling. I have shown how the coagulation of the meat prevents the escape of the juices and when this is postponed by the gradual heating of the water that the meat is immersed the full

That was sufficient explanation. If the chicken had been young and tender it would have been cooked to shreds by this time; as it was well advanced in years its toughness was only confirmed by the vigorous bolling.

More goes to slow cookery than the mere improvement of the tasts of the meat thus cooked. The juices of the meat ment injured as by rapid boiling and the food prepared by deliberate cookery is more digaetible than that which is done in a hurry. When the seasoning is cooked into it there is a blending of flavors which adds greatly to the savoriness of the compound.

"Just before beginning to wash the supper dishes at night put into a mining youl a cake of yeast broken into crumba and a haif cup of lukewarm water. When the dishwashing is finished, pour one pint of warm (not hot) water on to the yeast, with flour enough to make a stiff batter. This should be well whipped, and then set away in the fireless cooker over a slightly warmed stone for the night. Before breakfast the seat morning heat a pint of milk to the scalding point; add to it one tablespoon of sail, three tablespoons of sugar and three tablespoons of sugar and three tablespoons of sugar and three tablespoons of shortaining. (I use one of the vegetable substitutes for lard.) Bent the minture graduisity into the yeast sponge, with four enough to make as eff. a dough as can be stirred with a spoon or bread mixer. Work thoroughly; cover and set in a warm place for two or three hours. When the miss has doubled its bulk flour the moltling board liberally, pour out the dough, and kneed with more flour till it will not stick to your hands, and when cut shows no altholes. That part of the task must not be slighted. Mold into five loaves, or into four, and from the firth portion, plus sugar and shortwing creamed together, make a pan of buns.

"One who is not so fortunate as to possess a fireless cooker can construpt at home a convenience which will do much of its service. I wish I could have space for this entire letter, but I have put in more than I really ought to use, in justice to the chains of other correspondents upon the norm at my commend and yet have consisted a large part of the opisile. More than the lack of space has deterred me from using a portion of it. The strict rule of the paper against asking for aid to sell anything or to obtain money for any kind of work or effort has checked me. I regret this extremely, not only because the writer has been most generous in her bely through her suggestions and advice, but because her letter is so evidently that of an educated gentlewoman that my interest in her is genuinely roused. I hope she knows how sorry I am that I cannot put her in the way of exercising her talent to profit, and that these few words may inspire some one to write to her and endeavor to be of service in the way she wishes. I will gindly supply her address on application.

More than the lack of space has deterred me from using a portion of it. The strict rule of the paper against asking for aid to sell anything or to obtain money for any kind of work or effort has checked me. I regret this extremely, not only because the writer has been most generous in her help through her suggestions and advice, but because her letter is so evidently that of an educated gentlewoman that my interest in her is genuinely roused. I hape she knows how sorry I am that I samnot put her in the way of exercising her talent to profit, and that these few words may inspire some one to write to her and endeavor to be of service in the way she wishes. I will gladly supply her address on application.

Mailed Some Reading Matter.

"I sincerely thank you for the address of the correspondent about whom I asked. It is a pathetic case. I have written a long and, I hope, hapful letter to her and am mailing some reading matter. I am sure I can help her in other ways. The harvest is indeed wide, and while the respers are many there are many more needed, and the linereasing

The harvest is indeed wide, and while the reapers are many there are many more needed, and the need is increasing through this awful war. But right will prevail and the dear God is ever all.

This letter is of interest to us, not only as showing the spirit of readiness to help the needy but also as emphasizing the demand there is this winter for all the aid we can give to those less fortunate the support of the second of the sec than ourselves. I know how prompt the to pleas for assistance and in offers of aid, but I hope that this season they will be more than ever on the aiert to decide what they can give and to write offering what they have for those in want. This is to be a year of sacrifieds for others in every rank of society, and few of us are so poor but that we have some little bely we can extend to those even worse off than ourselves.

Copies of Old Songs.

"I see that 'Subscriber' writes asking for the two songs: 'Empty Is the Cradle, Baby's Gone,' and 'The Letter in the Candle.' Please direct her to write to me and send a self-addressed and stamped envelope and I will copy and send both songs. Also direct other inquirers wanting old songs to me. All I ask is for them to send stamped envelopes for reply, and if I have not the song wanted I will answer anyhow. I have many hunfreds of old and new songs, but have only one copy of each and therefore have none to sell or to give away, but I can copy out the words and send them. I believe I have all of 10,000 songs in my private collection—too many to count—and I am still collecting and preserving all good ones I can get. I request that inquirers writing to me for songs give the correct title and as much of the chorus of parts of verse as possible. This will enable me to find the song more easily and send it more quickly. I have many old Scotch, Irish, and English as well as American songs. J. F. T."

AM giving two suggestions for gifts today that can be worked in the new punched stitches. They are small and yet of great use and beauty. and yet of great use and beauty. They can be made in a very short time and will come in for the woman who has baffled you as to what is acceptable to her. A hand-made gift is always full of thought and is pleasing to the recipient. These can be made of small pieces and finished in good time. Try them.

mail pieces and finished in good time. Try them.

Of course, these articles are for linen, but they can be made of other materials if you can trace the designs on them. There is a new scrim used how for centerpieces and pincushions. On it the design is embroidered just as you would on linen. The transparent effect is particularly good over color, as you would have in a set for the bureau.

The pincushion is shown in its two phases. The inside oblong is the design for the top and the outer line is the edge of the under piece. When tracing the under piece. When tracing the under piece mark through the holes of the upper, so that you will have system to correspond and through which you will be able to lace the ribbons.

The chrysanthemums are to be padded and worked in solid stitches, and the leaves can be outlined and filled in with seed efficiency. These are small back stitches done in parallel rows.

When you work the new punched stitches begin at the center of the circle, which you will see in a group at the corner of the design. Take the thread out from here to the rim and pass it under to the center again. From this work out to another place on the rim and so on, making the spokes of your wheel. The continual passing in and out will make an open effect that will give a beautiful contrast for the solid work of the flowers.

Outline the irregular lines that are on the long sides of the design and work the holes in buttonhole stitches or in cyclets.

Pad the edge with several strands of darning cotton held in the left hand and used as padding for the buttonhole stitches as you work around the line.

The lower edge is padded and worked in the same way. These two parts are laced over the pincushion that can be bought already stuffed in any size and color.

bought already stuffed in any size and color.

'Yellow, pink or lavender would be excellent for this design.

The other auggestion can be worked in linen, denim, cloth or silk. Carbon paper is good for the transferring of the design. You will see that this piece is folded so that the flat case has a flay at the upper surface. A cord in attached after the bag is sewn at the ottom and sides. It should be lined with a piece the same size, the raw reams in, of course.

The working of this design is the same as that suggested for the pineushion.

Color is especially effective on gray of tan; and if you care to try metallic thread, the effect on black satin or broadcoth is beautiful. In this case you will not do the dots in punched work. Solid work is the best. Have you a suit of cloth or velvet for

A Beautiful Centerpiece

A LARGE and beautiful centerpiece is now being exhibited in an exclusive shop. It is made up of water illies forming a huge wreath, the wreath extending about the entire centerpiece a half inch in from its edge. At intervals there are veritable posls of punchwork done in pale green silk, and the nearest lilies have their tips extending over this punchwork. The lilies themselves are embreidered in solid white, with a shading of plink toward the tips. About the edge of the centerpiece is wide cluny lace.

Knit in Idle Moments Now that it has become the fashion to knit in all sorts of places—in the congressional galleries, at the theater during intermission, at musicales and lectures, and even in public conveyances—why not take advantage of the acceptional conceptivity to the continuity to the continuity of the exceptional opportunity to save by industry the precious moments that are so often wasted by idleness which convention demands?

Some of us, of course, will knit for the vietims of the war. All of us should knit at least one garment or muffler for this great cause; and then, with a lighter conscience, we may proceed to knit for ourselves or those at home in America.

Crocheted shawls are such warm, coinfy things and, if made of a good quality wool, will wash beautifully. Elquality wool, will wash beautifully. Elderly women who feel draughts or chilly about the shoulders will greatly appreciate these crocheted shawls. Crocheted wool shawls are also excellent for putting about the tiny intant when there is danger of its being too cool in the house. These shawls for bables should be in pink, white or blue.

Muffers can be knitted for the men folk of the family, and broad sears or numfers with long ends are now being worn by young girls over coat suits when they do not wear furs. Crocheted searfs are excellent for skating. These scarfs are excellent for skating. These scarfs are better knitted than crocheted, but they can be made in both cheted, but they can be made in both ways.

Hedroem slippers can be crocheted for men, women or children. Those for men should be in unobtrusive colors, while those for women or children may be in any color that they or you prefer. Bedroom shoes are made much the same as the bedroom slippers, only that the ankles are made acveral inches higher and fit and appear very much like a shoctop. Thus the ankles are protected if the bedroom happens to be childed.

Slumber slippers, too, are welcomed by both sexes and all ages. These are made without leather soles, the sole simply being a crocheted continuation of the upper part of the slipper. Old ladies particularly delight in these slumber slippers, but they are liked by old and young. With them on one deem't lie awake with cold feet or he scrooged up, afraid to put ones feet farther down upon the log sheets.

Knitted caps for babies are comfy things, and will keep their little cars warm as no boundt cap seems to do. They may be made in cream or white and, if you wish them more say, they may be bordered with pink or blue and tied with ribbons to match.

There are ever so many things which you can make in the one-time moments of enforced idleness which it has now become the fashion to utilize.

Gretchen Embroidery and Punchwork

RETCHEN embroidery is just the stitch for a hurry-up gift, when birthday is nigh on top of us. Instead of silk or wool, braid is used by the embroiderer-corpustion braid. One of the most effective designs in Gretchen embroidery is the daisy. The braid, in white, is looped into petals, twe deep. The semblance to the real little field flower is startling. These loops are tacked at the center of the flower and at the ends of the second layer of loops are left free, thus adding to their natural aspect. The petals do not meet at the center of the flower. A space is left a little smaller than a 10-cent plece. This space is filled with French knots crowded closely together. They are finade of rather coarse twist silk and are either brown or yellow. A very beautiful centerplece of white linen, showing a combination of Gretchen embroidery and punchwork, was shown just the other day at a private exhibition. It was quite large and had upon it four wreaths of daises in Gretchen work. The daisles were actual size. The centerpiece was of white lines and the daisies were white. with yellow centers. Each wreath contained eight daisies. Their petals touched, but at their outer tips, just where each joined the other, there pesped bits of pale green foliags. The entire center of each wreath was done in punchwork, with heavy green silk, a shade or so darker than the foliage of the daisies. Two dhisies, at equal distances, were worked in Gretchen embroidery between the wreaths, making eight separate daisies in all. These daisies were joined to each other and to the wreaths by little feathery lines of daisy foliage, making a daisy border about the whole centerpiecs. A line of couching in green covered the joining of the handsome cluny lace edge to the centerpiece.

A more effective piece of embroidery it would be difficult to find, and the owner was justly proud of it. Gretchen embroidery is simple, quicely worked, and yet has that "showy" appearance that suggests the difficult and the elaborate.

Bedroom Curtains

CURTAINS expressing the aeme of good tasts for the bedroom are, fortunately, the easiest things imaginable to make and as inexpensive as curtains could possibly be. These curtains are of lawn, swiss on muslin and may be made in various ways.

Baby's Present

of the little dresses, as these are neces-sities; but when it comes to the luxury of embroidery upon these same dresses. of embroidery upon these same dresses, the little trocks are apt to go shy of the pretty ornament from lack of time. One or two little aprays in solid work lasy-daisy or French knots are quite descriptions for the tiny yook, and the embroidery will not take more than a couple of hours. Besides yokes, there are the quaint little lay-down collar and cuff that are now being worn be even the smallest of bables. With these embroidered bits an embroidered yoke is not necessary. The edges of both collars and cuffs should be scalloped and buttonhole-stitched, and a spray of flowers or exattering of eyelsis or solid dots should ornament them. The claborate embroidery is not in good taste for a baby.

AStraight Flat Back from Tarragone

A ND here we have the monastic styles revived so that pretty femininity can wear them and look beautiful! There is no sackcloth in the dress, although there is a sense of security and contentment in the simplicity and dignity of the gowns and coats that have come as a relief to the ruffles that are still in the front ranks of fashion.

The monastic lines and colors answer the demands that women who love simplicity make on style. Just how well they answer them is shown in the group before

Over in France there is a quaint monastery outside Dieppe. Here the monks in their quiet lives give a beautiful picture to the artist who is out for local color and who recognizes the artistic worth of the garb of the order. In the coat there is a reproduction of the overstole worn by this order. It is a straight piece hanging at the front and back, slipping over the head. A broad collar, that in the original can be turned into a hood, is the finish at the top. The coat has a modified line at the front, but it is known as the monk's coat and has a style that is certainly individual.

You have heard of the famous Chartreuse wines. They are distilled in the little town of Tarragone, in the factory that is run by the monks. And here is the seat of inspiration of something more than cordials or wines. Dreas has a little to take from the monks who wander silently in the cloisters of the cathedral of Tarragone modification of course.

The woman who is slender and straight will greet this gray as an excellent relief in a wardrobe of other styles.

Have you seen the monk's cord that is gradually encircular waist lines of the dresses of women? Well, it is here in a flat exploit it drops down below the waist and holds in the fullness of tunic. The idea of the monk's cord is the important thing, and awoman is she who takes an idea and makes it conform to he ments.

The colors that have been worn in all orders of means are to the fore. The sand color, the reddish brown, stone gray color, which is that of the natural yarn, are the accepted neutral colors. They combine well with any bright colors and an iteal and generally becoming.

But remember the monastery and take an idea now and the its inmates. It will help you in this great question of dress.
